U.N. Advised to Let Middle East Alone Report Due on Water for Cooling Units

Adherence To Ruling Noted Good Shorter Officers, Parking Discussed

A report on a 1956 measure aimed at conservation of city water through restrictions on heavier air-conditioning units is being prepared and will be released soon, the Common Council learned last night.

Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent, in reply to an inquiry by Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th ward, said voluntary compliance has been "exceptionally good," and indicated that more details will be known when the full report is prepared.

Committee Named

Another step toward possible use of a lot off Pearl Street for an up-town parking area was taken with the naming of a committee to study the proposal, and a suggestion that would aid in adding men to the city's depleted police force was referred for study.

Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk, on suggestion of Mayor Frederick H. Stang, named George F. McArdle, (R) 13th Ward, Hirschell Mayes (R), First Ward, and William K. Bodenweber (D), Ninth Ward, as the committee to study the up-town parking proposal.

Study on Cost

Mayor Stang, in a letter to the council, said he had been in touch with a committee from the Old Dutch Reformed Church on the parking proposal and a preliminary study has been made by City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan, who has tentative figures on cost.

The mayor proposed that the council committee meet with that of the church and confer with himself and the city engineer. He proposed an early meeting, if the plan is found favorable.

The lot, owned by the church, is on the north side of Pearl Street. It is estimated that it would accommodate about 40 cars.

Asks Verification

Details on the air-conditioning ordinance were requested in a letter from Alderman Ryan to Cloonan. Ryan cited a report that the ordinance had gained 99 1/2 per cent compliance.

Many have questioned the basis for this figure, Ryan said. Reports from the department's investigators, he felt, would be points of verification, and he suggested that such reports be (Continued on Page 10, Col. 1)

SCHOOL BUS LANDS IN RAVINE—Rescue workers bend over victims of school bus tragedy at Los Angeles after vehicle plunged onto a footbridge and went into a 35-foot deep ravine, landing upside down. Three children were killed and 24 injured beside the driver. (AP Wirephoto)

Stang Advises Jury Findings for Board

Findings pertinent to police department irregularities as noted in a recent grand jury report, should be aired by the police board after study of minutes of the jury, Mayor Frederick H. Stang proposed today.

The mayor said he will recommend that Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy make application for an inspection of the grand jury minutes "so that the Board of Police Commissioners may have the facts before them for whatever action should be taken with respect to any irregularities."

To Act on Study

A meeting of the police board will be called immediately, the mayor said, after receipt of the official report of the grand jury, and it will study the report "and take whatever action is deemed necessary."

The jury's report, as released yesterday, held that laxity of leadership led to a breakdown of morale and integrity in the department and it offered eight recommendations aimed to remedy the present "lamentable situation."

Suggestions Not New

The mayor noted in his statement today, however, that "from reports in the press and on the radio, many of the suggestions contained in said report are already in operation, and have been for some time."

These were not outlined, but past reports have indicated requests for additional men beyond the approximately 50 in the department at the beginning of the year, and the board some time ago called for rotation of tours of duty. It also (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5)

Dry Forests Are Seen Ready to Burst Into Fires

ALBANY (AP)—Dry Upstate woods—the destination of thousands of hunters this month—are ready to burst again into forest fires.

"We're on the edge of trouble in the forests," Al Bromley, editor of "Conservationist" magazine reported yesterday. The magazine is published by the Conservation Department.

"We need a normal amount of rain from here on out to reduce the forest fire hazard in conjunction with the opening of the hunting season," Bromley said. The small-game season opens Oct. 14.

No forest fires have been reported recently to the department's control bureau here. The Upstate woods bear scars of several forest fires earlier this year.

A department spokesman said the woods were "really dry," particularly in the lower Hudson Valley and some parts of the Adirondacks.

Leaves are falling in profusion and heightening the problem, he said.

A frost last week had some dampening effect, the spokesman said, but much of it was evaporated by bright sunshine that followed in the daytime.

Light showers fell in the Adirondacks yesterday but sunny weather was expected today and tomorrow.

Gunman Faces Murder, Says Dead Pal Shot Policemen

SCOTTSBURG, Ind. (AP)—A murder charges today faced a gunman who insisted that his dead companion had fired the shots that killed two policemen in two states.

Victor W. Whitley, 26, of Granger, Tex., was bound over to Scott Circuit Court by Peace Justice O. E. Hedrick late yesterday. He was held without bail in the Jeffersonville jail.

State police said Whitley told them that Ralph W. Taylor, 36, of Kenova, W. Va., fired the shots that killed state troopers Dugald A. Pellot, 23, of Clinton, Mich.,

and William Kellems, 27, of Scottsburg.

Taylor was killed Monday night in an exchange of gunfire with Lester Kenen, 38, North Vernon patrolman, as Taylor and Whitley fled from a police roadblock set up at Vernon after Kellems was slain.

The killing of Taylor and cornering of Whitley ended a four-month robbery spree by the two gunmen. Taylor was a convicted rapist and parole violator from West Virginia, but police said Whitley had no previous record of a major crime.

NEW YORK (AP)—Bright, sunny weather greeted the defending world champion New York Yankees and the National League champion Milwaukee Braves as they opened the World Series before a crowd of 70,000.

The Play by Play

BRAVES FIRST

The switch-hitting Schoendienst, batting right handed bounced to Carey who threw him out.

Logan popped up to Coleman.

Mathews, swinging at a 3-2 pitch, popped up to Carey.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

YANKEES FIRST

Bauer fled to Pafko in short right center.

McDougald lined the first pitch to right for a single.

Mantle was credited with an infield single when Logan, after making a backhanded stop of the sharp grounder to his right, could not get the ball out of the webbing of his glove. McDougald stopped at second.

Skowron bounced to Schoendienst, whose throw to Logan forced Mantle at second. Mantle slid hard into the bag and upset Logan to break up a possible double play as McDougald stopped at third.

Berra popped up to Schoendienst.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

BRAVES SECOND

Aaron bounced out, Coleman to Skowron.

Adcock fled to Bauer deep into the right field corner.

Pafko sent Kubek back nearly to the edge of the grass in left field for his 375-foot drive.

YANKEES SECOND

Carey fled to Aaron in straight-away center.

Coleman doubled inside the right field line.

Kubek fled to Covington in short left center, Coleman holding second.

It was announced that Skowron had re-injured his back while running to first base in the first inning and was forced to retire.

Ford went out on a short fly to Covington.

Program Is Lacking On Hail-Hit Apples

Only 950 bushels of some 950,000 bushels of hail-damaged apples in Ulster, Dutchess and Sullivan counties have been disposed of by tri-county fruit growers, The Freeman learned today.

Of the total "hail-hit" apples in the three counties, Ulster County suffered a loss estimated at 644,000 bushels as the result of hail storms during the latter part of the summer. It was reported by William Palmer, Ulster County agricultural agent.

Nothing But Publicity

Growers appealed to the state some weeks ago for emergency assistance which resulted in a directive from the Division of Standards and Purchases, Executive Department, to various state institutions advising them that the hail-damaged apples could be purchased.

Jerome Hurd of Clintondale, vice-president of the Northeast Fruit Association, said today that despite extensive newspaper publicity about the proposed purchase of the damaged apples by state institutions only a few hundred bushels had been taken.

Sharp Words to Aye

A rather sharply worded telegram was sent to Gov. Harriman last week by the Northeast Fruit Association as follows:

"We appreciate your press efforts regarding movement of hail-damaged apples out of the Hudson valley area. However, the movement has been nil, due undoubtedly to lack of emergency funds. Tax-paying growers are demoralized. Quick and drastic action is needed immediately. Growers appreciate publicity regarding hail apples but are sorely in need of a concrete program."

Hurd said the Governor had replied that he had discussed the matter with the State Commissioner of Agriculture who was investigating and would report to him.

Directive Inadequate

Hurd said that emergency aid was needed, that the directive enabling state institutions to purchase hail-damaged apples was inadequate to meet the crisis.

Some institutions have their own apple orchards and distribute (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5)

Retrial Forecast Of Confidential; Jury Discharged

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Deadlocked after two weeks of unproductive wrangling, the jury in the Confidential magazine criminal libel conspiracy trial was discharged last night.

A juror disclosed that the jury stood 7 to 5 for conviction.

And the same juror said the jury heard a rumor Sunday that one of its members had been bribed. The report stemmed from a remark overheard by a juror as she walked through the lobby of the hotel where the jury was quartered.

Said Presiding Judge Herbert V. Walker: "A five to seven jury doesn't look like anyone was bought."

Hope for Verdict Out

Declaration of a mistrial dropped the curtain on a two-month legal battle over whether Confidential, its sister scandal magazine, Whisper, and other defendants conspired to libel celebrities and to publish lewd and obscene stories.

But this, said Dep. Dist. Atty. William L. Ritz, was only the first act. "The case will be retried," he said.

Foreman Fred L. McCulley told Walker that the jury was divided 7 to 5 and there was no hope of (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

October Dates Given for Area Registration

Registration days for the general election November 5 will be Friday and Saturday, Oct. 11 and 12, and Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18 and 19 in the city of Kingston, it was announced today by Miss Marguerite Quick, clerk of the Ulster County Board of Elections.

In Ulster County outside Kingston registration will be on Saturday, Oct. 12, and Saturday, Oct. 19.

Hours of registration in the city of Kingston will be from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Oct. 11, 12 and 18, and from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Oct. 19.

Hours of registration in the county will be from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Oct. 12 and from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m. on Oct. 19.

Everyone must be registered to be eligible to vote in the general election, Miss Quick said.

A total of 68,367 persons were registered for the election last year—16,044 in the city and 52,323 in the county.

Ordinarily, registration is held on the first two weeks' ends of October. The dates were changed this year because of the Jewish holidays.

Confessed Spy Pleads For Mercy From U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Tears filling his eyes and his hands trembling, confessed spy Jack Soble said yesterday he deeply regrets the crimes he committed against this country. He asked for mercy from the country he schemed to betray.

The 55-year-old former head of a Soviet intelligence ring in the United States told Federal Judge Richard H. Levett: "I cannot forgive myself. I had plenty of opportunity to straighten out my life since I came to this country and I didn't do it."

Sentence Next Week

Soble appeared before Levett for sentencing. He had pleaded guilty to conspiring to obtain national defense secrets, knowing the information would be transmitted to the Soviet Union.

Levett said he would impose sentence next Tuesday. He also will rule on motions to reduce the 5 1/2 year sentences he imposed Aug. 9 on Soble's wife Myra, 33, and Jacob Albam, 64.

Mrs. Soble and Albam pleaded guilty to the same charge as did Soble.

Has Deep Regret

"Your honor," Soble said to Levett, "I can only say I deeply regret my past and the crimes I committed against the country which gave me refuge."

The Lithuanian-born spy and his wife were naturalized here in 1947.

Soble could get a maximum 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Mrs. Soble sobbed softly as her husband pleaded for lenience. They have a 17-year-old son. Lawrence, who refused to believe his parents were spies until they pleaded guilty in court.

County Meeting Scheduled Oct. 15 on College Plans

A county-wide meeting of all citizens interested in the establishment of a Community College in Ulster County will be held Tuesday, Oct. 15, in the County Court House here at 8 p. m.

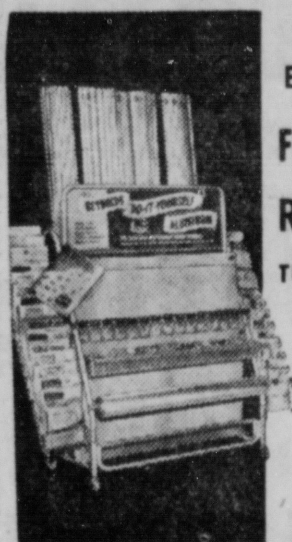

The announcement was made today by Harry Rigby Jr., chairman of the advisory committee to the official Community College committee of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

At a joint meeting on May 28 of the official supervisor's committee, headed by Supervisor Fred H. DuBois of New Paltz, and the informal citizen's committee, the latter group was asked to serve in an advisory capacity. They were asked to study the question and recommend any action which might be taken.

As a result of insistent demands from organizations and interested citizens, the advisory group arranged for the county-wide meeting on October 15 and has secured Dr. Lawrence L. Jarvie, executive dean of the (Continued on Page 10, Col. 3)

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Don't Ask Older Child to Indulge Tot's Helplessness

One rainy morning Larry was working on a portrait of a jet plane. He'd just picked up a red crayon to color its fiery tail when his little brother began to howl.

He looked up just long enough to note that Buddy's new yellow ball had got wedged under the piano bench. It was the kind of thing that was always happening to Buddy.

He dropped spoons at meals—and yelled for help. He failed to open the screen door or disentangle a toy's string from a bush—and yelled for help.

What's more, he always got it. His disgusting helplessness didn't revolt Mommy at all. Instead, she'd pick up his spoon, open the door, disentangle the toy—or say crossly to Larry, "Why couldn't you unlatch the door for him? Can't you see he's not tall enough to reach it himself?"

But strangely enough, this morning she neither retrieved Buddy's ball for him herself nor did she ask Larry to do it.

Instead, after surveying the situation, she said, "Buddy can get that ball for himself. Will you help me show him how? He's got to start doing things for himself sometime. You and I can't go on waiting on him forever."

Larry dropped his red crayon at once. Running over to the piano bench, he lifted it. Then, squatting down beside Buddy's freed ball, he said encouragingly to his little brother, "Come on—get this ball for yourself. You can do it. We can't go on waiting on you forever. Come on..."

The result was such a triumphant and grateful Buddy that his flattered brother said, "Want me to play ball with him a little while before lunch, Mom?"

An older child wants to help us teach independence to a younger one.

To Larry, Buddy's most irritating trait has been his helplessness—that dependence on Mommy which has left her so little time for his brother. Larry wants Buddy to start decreasing his demands on it so that there'll be more for him.

When we ask him to help us show Buddy how to solve his own problems, we use his natural interest in Buddy's independence to profit both the children.

The mistake is asking the older child to indulge the younger one's helplessness.

ATTAIN WEBELOS RANK—Webelos, the highest rank in Cub Scouting, was achieved by three Cub Scouts of Pack 9, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at the monthly pack meeting Monday night. William Mayer, (far right), pack committee chairman, presents

Redeemer Church Cub Pack Hoedown Features Awards

Three Cub Scouts of Pack 9, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, received their Webelos badges at a "Homesteader's Hoedown" meeting of the pack Monday evening.

Chairman of the pack committee, William Meyer, made the presentation of the highest awards in Cub Scouting to Robert Elliott, William Reynolds, and William Daum, and invested the Cub Scouts with Pioneer neckerchiefs bearing the sign of the Webelos.

Homesteader's Theme

The "Homesteader's" theme of the month was exemplified in den exhibits and costume. Each of the four dens displayed much research on the pioneers of our country with exhibits of home-made tools, household utensils, candles, butter churns, branding irons, powder horns, log cabins, book collections and pictures of early settlements.

Many of the mothers wore poke bonnets made by their sons at den meetings.

Den 1, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Elliott, den mother, led the opening flag ceremony. The Rev. David C. Gaise, pastor of the sponsoring institution, welcomed the large gathering of parents and friends of the Cub Scouts.

Bobcats Inducted
Two new Bobcats, Raymond Sperle and Walter Purhamus, were welcomed along with their families into the pack by Cubmaster Robert Elliott, who also made the following awards:

Lion Badge to Paul Huth; Bear Badges to Thomas Falocco and Michael Kennedy; Silver arrow on Lion Badge to William Daum and Robert Villielm; two silver arrows on Lions Badge to Gerard Buboltz; gold arrow on Bear Badge to Michael Kennedy; closing ceremony, refreshments were served by Den 1.

Visit Museum

In conjunction with the theme, a party of 50 Cubs and their families visited the Old Museum Village of Smith's Cove, Monroe on Sunday to see collections of tools, utensils, appliances, machines, costumes, and vehicles used by our ancestors.

Pack 9 will participate in the annual field day at the Kingston Armory October 12.

The next regular pack meeting will be held at the church assembly room, Wurts and Rogers Streets, Oct. 28.

WANT ADS SERVE MILLIONS

This is National Newspaper Week and the theme for this year's observance is "Your Newspaper Serves." Millions of readers will attest to the fact that one of the important services of a newspaper is its Want Ad section, so aptly called the market place of millions. In this vast market place big and little people in all walks of life buy and sell to their mutual advantage.

But the Want Ads are more than that—they fulfill ambitions and heal distress. Here's an advertisement seeking the return of a lost dog, a child's pet. It requires little imagination to sense the desolation of a home deprived of a lovable companion or to feel the happiness occasioned by its return.

Those requests for part-time jobs: Are they placed by eager young people trying to finance their education or are they the plaintive hope of oldsters, trying to piece out meager annuities or pensions?

"Motoring to midwest, want someone to share driving." Here's an opportunity for travel for the lonely boy or girl with little money but a great yearning to see the hometown and loved ones again.

So it goes through the many classifications of the Want Ads—an endless variety of wants and needs, desires and dreams. They make entertaining reading for lively minds.

FAIR AND SPEEDY

The ideal of a fair and speedy trial is fundamental to the American system of justice. This ideal is constantly thwarted by crowded docket conditions in the courts. That causes delay which often makes the adjective "speedy" a mockery.

This situation is newly underscored in a report by the administrative office of the United States courts. The court calendars in a majority of the 86 federal districts have been more jammed than ever this year. One of the main factors in this has been the swift rise in the number of private civil cases, which require more of the judges' time than other cases.

The picture is not entirely black. In the southern district of New York, for example, the backlog of cases has been reduced from 5,600 two years ago to only 821 at the close of the 1957 session. The amount of delay in reaching trial also has been drastically cut.

This is encouraging, even though it is the exception rather than the rule. It shows that the congestion on court dockets can be relieved if proper measures are taken. It is important that such measures be taken—and not only in the federal district courts, but in all courts where judges are overwhelmed by a crowded calendar. If a man's case does not come to trial for a year—or two or three years, as sometimes happens—the phrase, "fair and speedy trial," has a hollow sound.

THE SLOW CITIES

Americans who live in big cities can't expect much of a break on the five o'clock rush. No matter where they live, it is going to take them just about as long to go a given number of miles as the fellow who lives in another metropolitan area.

This is brought out in a 25-city survey by Fortune magazine. Except in four cities—Cleveland, San Francisco, Houston and Dallas—all the distance covered in 30 minutes fell in a narrow range between eight and 12 miles, or from 18 to 24 miles per hour.

The traffic-dodging motorist was able to average a mere 10 miles in half an hour, while the commuters on buses, subways and streetcars could do no better than an average 6½ miles an hour. Exceptions were rail commuters in New York, San Francisco and Newark.

And there doesn't appear to be much prospect of any speedier exits after the day's work. At least not in the big cities. The moral is: If you want a little more leisure, if you want a little better transpor-

In the controversy that is arising over the Supreme Court, Representative Wright Patman of Texas has raised a pertinent question, namely, that instead of basing decisions upon briefs submitted by litigants, the court briefs itself, using, at times, material not submitted to it by either party, but selected by the justice himself or by his law clerk who may introduce matter which, according to Patman, is "unrecognized and non-authoritative."

Patman said concerning this: "Formerly, we had every reason to expect that decisions by our Supreme Court would be controlled by the standards outlined by the Constitution, the law, the facts of the case and by the sound reasoning of the justices. In the past even though we felt the court had decided a case wrongly we nevertheless felt that we could understand that the court had a basis in the record of the hearing in the case for its decision."

The difficulty now arises from the fact that text books, law reviews, propagandistic material from pressure groups and all sorts of outside factors enter into the formation of a decision. Patman says of this that if the court in preparing its decision uses material without notifying counsel on both sides, neither side has the opportunity "to meet the arguments of these theorists and lobbyists."

To quote Patman: "... The Law Review articles, treatises, and so forth, prepared and disseminated by the lobbyists command no respect, have no standing as legal authorities, and therefore warrant no consideration by opposing counsel. If the rule were otherwise counsel would be rendered helpless because their arguments would become diluted heavily with extraneous miscellaneous matter designed to overcome the various theories advanced by the lobbyists posing as legal authorities."

However, whatever the Supreme Court says becomes authoritative. Therefore an article published in a law review could become the basis for the law of the land once a Supreme Court justice adopted it for a majority opinion, even though the article in question be written by a second year law student who has not yet cut his eye-teeth.

The problem here, it seems to me, is not so much what material the justices employ to form their opinions, as that counsel should know what it is so that they may argue a point. Otherwise, it would seem futile to prepare a case, recognizing that a third brief would be submitted by an anonymous researcher employed by the court and against whose views and arguments no one would have a chance to say anything. Patman made an interesting observation in this connection:

"Research conducted by the Library of Congress regarding all of the decisions made by the Supreme Court of the United States in antitrust cases from 1890 to 1957 discloses that in no antitrust case prior to 1940 had the Supreme Court cited an authority a law review article on the point in issue and upon which it relied for decision in the case. However, the study has shown that commencing in 1940 the influence of law-review articles and of other publications has grown steadily with the Supreme Court of the United States in its consideration and decision in antitrust cases."

Do the justices always know who wrote the articles in the law reviews? Are those articles always signed? Do the justices study the backgrounds of the men who wrote those articles to determine whether what they say is based upon sound scholarship or is propaganda for a cause? Representative Patman makes the point that in two important cases, the citations, one from the Harvard Law Review and the other from the Yale Law Journal bore no signatures, the authors of the material being anonymous. Perhaps the justice of the Supreme Court who used these items in his opinion communicated with the editors of these publications to obtain the necessary information. But counsel for neither side could know in advance that these items would be cited in a prevailing Supreme Court decision.

There is an unnecessary element of surprise which could cause a miscarriage of justice.

Lawyers spending months preparing briefs, at enormous expense to their clients, are suddenly faced by an article in a law journal which neither side may have read or noticed or considered worthwhile. In fact, for all we know, the justice, in a summer mood, may have used these items in his opinion communicated with the editors of these publications to obtain the necessary information. But counsel for neither side could know in advance that these items would be cited in a prevailing Supreme Court decision.

Excessive Hydrochloric Acid
May Interfere With
Healing of Ulcer
BY EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

It is unfortunate, I think, for people to worry about technical questions about which they can do little or nothing. This really is the job of the physician.

Q—You said recently that the two most important reasons for lack of hydrochloric acid in the stomach are cancer and pernicious anemia. Will too much hydrochloric acid in the stomach cause cancer?—Mrs. K.

A—Most readers know that the cells of the stomach normally secrete hydrochloric acid which aids in digestion. Too little of this substance is merely a symptom and can be present in a healthy person. Too much hydrochloric acid is also a symptom and may or may not be significant. There is likely to be an excessive amount of hydrochloric acid in the stomach in the presence of peptic ulcer of that organ which, if not neutralized, may interfere with the healing of the ulcer. Too much hydrochloric acid in the stomach does not cause cancer, but some varieties of ulcer of the stomach have to be watched very carefully for the possible development of cancer in or near the ulcer.

Q—About two years ago a friend of mine was taken to the hospital with tuberculosis. After a while she was released and the doctors told her her case was arrested. She is now going with a fellow who knows all about her illness and they are planning to marry. Every once in a while he tells her that if they have a child the baby will be born with tuberculosis. Is this true?—Mrs. B.

A—It is not true. Tuberculosis is not inherited, though if the mother has an active case of tuberculosis she could pass on the germs of that disease to her child. Caution is indicated in pregnancy for a girl who has had tuberculosis, but many such have perfectly healthy children.

Q—Are there any tests which can be given in pregnancy which will determine the sex of the unborn child?—Mrs. L.

A—A vast number of tests and superstitions surround this question. Any method will be about 50 per cent right over the long run by the laws of chance. However, I do not believe that anything has been devised which will accurately foretell the sex of the unborn child, though it is quite likely this may come sometime.

Q—My parents taught us never to kiss on the mouth. Now my daughter kisses her boy friend on the mouth just as you see it on TV. What do you think about this?—G. H.

A—Of course germs and viruses can be spread by this means, but the custom developed long before the discovery of TV. There is little reason to believe that any possible risk will stop it.

"Another Example of Violence in America"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Wiley Buchanan, chief of protocol at the State Department, can quote volumes of the social do's and don'ts necessary for the promotion of good international relations.

But before long, he's liable to become an expert on another set of rules.

Buchanan is expected to get the job of explaining football to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip when they attend the Maryland-North Carolina game. It's believed his assistants on the projects will be Maryland Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and University of Maryland President Wilson H. Elkins.

SEN. GEORGE SMATHERS (D-Fla.) has learned it doesn't pay to put off taking a vacation. Since the beginning of summer, he has looked forward to joining his wife and children in Florida for several weeks of lazy living. But when Congress finally adjourned, it was time for his kids to come back to Washington and get ready for school.

So Smathers decided to stay in his office and finish up a little back work before taking it easy for a while. But the between-sessions workload didn't drop off as he expected. Every day Smathers was astonished to see fresh stacks of mail piled on his desk.

When he finally waded through all the letters, it was time to start writing a multitude of speeches. He finished the last one just before boarding a plane for his annual whirlwind tour of Florida.

Friends say the senator hopes to take a breather at Christmas. But he's not getting his hopes too high.

Since the Russians have never been famous for wanting to talk to the press, the three newsmen were anxious to see what was up. Upon arriving, they were met by three smiling Soviet diplomats who graciously ushered them into the dining room.

When everyone had settled back comfortably, the Soviet charge d'affaires revealed that Mr. Valentin Ivanov, the new press attache, had recently arrived at the embassy. He said he thought inviting Ivanov to join the Press Club would help both the press attache and the club.

The newsmen were astonished. They explained that Ivanov had been a member three weeks earlier under a rule which automatically admits all foreign press attaches to the club.

Amendment Urged to End School Integration Dispute

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's an American way, a constitutional way, a simple way to solve the "segregation-integration" controversy in the public schools.

It's an honest way, not a hypocritical way that holds out the olive branch of "gradualism" or sanctions a lot of obvious subterfuges like some of the pupil-assignment plans. It's a method that will be accepted by the South as well as by the North.

But, first, the story of the bewildered American. Judging by the mail this correspondent has been receiving from all parts of the country—the largest number of letters on a single subject he has ever received—here are some basic truths which describe the state of a considerable section of American public opinion today:

1. The average American respects "the law of the land," whatever it may be. He cannot understand why anybody would knowingly or willfully violate it.

2. Confusion exists as to what "the law of the land" really is. For fifty-eight years a certain Supreme Court of the United States said that "the law of the land" permitted schools that were "separate but equal" in educational facilities. This "law of the land" was upheld no less than thirty-five times in decisions of the Supreme Court. Chief Justice Taft—a Republican, a former President of the United States, a man who took the oath of office twice to "defend and support" the Constitution—upheld the "separate but equal" doctrine in a famous decision in 1928.

3. What is a citizen to think who is told year in and year out for fifty-eight years that the Constitution says a certain thing and then discovers all of a sudden that the Constitution has been changed and that he, the voter, has had nothing to say about it? What is he to think as he observes that no member of Congress has had the opportunity to vote on the change?

4. "Can the Constitution be changed overnight without any action by the people?" asks the bewildered citizen. When the citizen is told that the Supreme Court of the United States has the right to "interpret" the Constitution, the question is asked: "Does this mean that there is no limit to what the court can do in changing the Constitution and, if so, what did the founding fathers mean when they spelled out so exactly in the Constitution itself how the 'supreme law of the land' was to be changed only by a vote of two-thirds of both houses of Congress and a vote of three-fourths of the states, either through their legislatures or by means of convention?"

5. Can nine men—appointed for life—dictate changes in the Constitution that the people must accept? The average man is being told that this is the present system. Even as he hears it, he begins to ask where is the "check" in the famous system of "checks and balances" that can be applied some day against an unscrupulous or reckless Supreme Court.

14th Amendment Dispute
6. But the citizen is told there is already in the Constitution—in the Fourteenth Amendment—a clause that now allegedly forbids segregation in the public schools, though for fifty-eight years the Supreme Court didn't see it that way. He reads, moreover, in the history books that the Fourteenth Amendment was never legally "ratified" and that only twenty-one out of the necessary twenty-eight states did ratify it legally, because puppet legislatures of the Southern states—with most white citizens forbidden to vote—were forced to ratify it at the point of a bayonet, even after amnesty had been declared by the President.

He reads, too, that the Thirteenth Amendment—abolishing slavery—was accepted as having been legally ratified by those same Southern legislatures that were forbidden to vote later on the Fourteenth Amendment.

So what is the best solution? It is to follow the Constitution itself—a method that every citizen understands. An amendment can be proposed which would declare that, notwithstanding any other provision of the Constitution, the control of the whole educational system—with power to prohibit any discrimination on the basis of race or color or creed—shall be vested concurrently in the Federal government and the states and that, in case of conflict, Federal law will be considered to supersede any law of the states.

This is the direct way to place the issue before the people and, if two-thirds of both houses of Congress approve and three-fourths of the states ratify it, there will be obedience in every corner of the land.

This is based on George Washington's advice in his Farewell Address, when he said: "If in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the Constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this in one instance may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed." Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

There is one man who, without any political axes to grind, has called his shots as to how "huge frozen assets" can be unfrozen, to benefit all of us. I refer to ex-President Hoover.

As far back as 1953, he pointed out that Government agencies held a total of 18 billion $'s of net loans. Four agencies were responsible for nearly half: the Rural Electrification Administration; the C.C.C. (Commodity Credit Corporation); the Federal National Mortgage Association; and the Export-Import Bank.

It has been estimated that the liquidation of the assets of these four agencies would be more than enough to pay a year's interest on the National debt of about 280 billion $'s and cut taxes besides.

In fiscal '55, aid to Agriculture cost the Treasury, and the people, 2 billion 366 million bucks.

There is not a word in the Constitution that authorizes the Federal Government to tax me to loan to you, or to rob you to give to me.

It is probably too late to hope that our Government will return to the Constitution as it was written.

However, the record shows what it costs us when the Constitution is violated by the advocates of "nurse-maid state."

Money concerns us, if the Constitution doesn't!

Neighbor, we should demand that Congress carry out the Hoover Commission's proposals.

Democrats to List

Town Platform Soon

WOODSTOCK — The Democratic Party platform for the 1957 election in Woodstock will be made public shortly, it was announced this week by Louis A. Lewis, Democratic Town Committee chairman, and candidate for the office of supervisor.

The Democratic campaign committee and the full slate of candidates met Sunday night at Lewis' home to formulate a platform which is now in process of being drafted into final form. "What we aimed at in drawing up our platform," Lewis said, "was to present a constructive program for our town government from now on. We mean a program designed for the maximum good of all the people in the community, and we mean to do our best to carry it forward as soon as we are elected to office."

The Democratic slate includes: for Supervisor, Louis Lewis; for Councilman, Mrs. Tobias Gerstema (also running on an Independent ticket); for Town Clerk, Mrs. Jean Gaede; for Justice of the Peace, Dixon McGrath; for Assessor, 4 years, Ralph Kricker; for Assessor, 2 years, Donald Twine. Albert Cashdollar, Republican candidate for Highway Superintendent, received the Democratic endorsement as well.

Raymond Kenyon was named campaign manager at the Sunday meeting, and his opening statement of the campaign was a fighting one. "We intend to put up a real battle," he said, "and we know we can count on support from a great many Woodstock voters on November 5—enough to make it count!"

Senior Citizens Club

To Be Formed Locally

Announcement has been made by the Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee that it is believed that the time is ripe for the youthful oldsters of this community to organize a Senior Citizens Club. Woodstock has its share of interesting senior citizens, a spokesman for the Nursing Committee said, talented people with rich experiences and varied interests who have much to offer and much to gain by sharing their experiences and interests with others in their own age group.

The idea for the formation of the club was derived in part from the publication a few years ago of Walter Pitkin's book, "Life Begins at Forty," which became a best seller. Later Jack Barry proved on his radio and television programs that life can also begin at eighty. The Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee believes that 60 is a good age at which to take stock of one's self. By that time the children in the family no longer need care, and even the grandchildren are striving for independence. Often contemporaries have passed away, or they have lost contact with friends and acquaintances.

The Public Health Nursing Committee has arranged to hold the first meeting of the new club Tuesday, Oct. 15, at 7:30 p. m., at the Methodist Church Hall. Refreshments will be served and there will be music for dancing. For those who do not square dance there will be ample opportunity to learn. For those who prefer it, there will be waltz music, and if there are any "cha cha" dancers the committee and guests will be delighted to see a demonstration. At future meetings which will take place the second Tuesday of each month, there will be lectures, demonstrations, musical programs, card parties and other activities. The committee is also open to suggestions.

The only requirement for membership is that one should have 60 years or more of experience in living. All in that group are invited to attend the first meeting and make it a gala occasion.

Christ Lutherans

Elect New Officers

The Rev. G. Oliver Sands presided at the recent annual congregational meeting of Christ Lutheran Church. He reported an average attendance of 69 at the morning service and 48 at Lenten services. Attendance records are kept by Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Holmizer. He has nine accessions by letter and two by profession of faith, and five infant baptisms. Two new organizations have formed: the Fellowship Family which meets for supper the last Sunday night of each month and the Luther League which meets twice a month on Monday nights.

Miss Florence Peper, treasurer of both Sunday school and church gave a report of offering but said that food sales were not as profitable as formerly. Miss Lydia Russell reported for the United Lutheran Church Women: Mrs. Erwin Holmizer for the Young Women's Guild; Mr. John Wolven for the Fellowship Family; Mr. Albert Holmizer Jr. for the Luther League; Miss Margaret Zelfiff told how the choir was self supporting, buying its own music. Hans Horgan spoke of the work of the trustees; and Mr. Erwin Holmizer reported on the work of the study committee for a new parish hall. He spoke of the studies made in population trends and enrollment in Sunday school over the years. Miss Russell spoke of the time when she was the only teacher and invited everyone to visit the school new.

Holmizer continued his report by showing sketches of the proposed parish hall and a preliminary sketch by an architect. Action was delayed until more ideas were investigated. Elections were held as follows: Percy Crosswell to succeed Erwin Holmizer as elder; Martin Klinger, deacon to succeed

Raymond Snyder, elder, presided during the election of the trustee and when the pastor's increase in salary was voted.

Methodists Hear

Anti-Bingo Sermon

The big question facing the people of New York State in the coming election, according to the Rev. Garnett M. Wilder, of the Woodstock Methodist Parish, is whether "the end justifies the means." "Oh, it is for a good cause" is one of the most destructive and deceptive statements now being used, he said. The church must stand guard over the moral conscience of society, but especially must the church examine its own moral conscience. The moral question in bingo, as well as in all other forms of gambling, is rather clear at present, he believes. It is against the law. The evils which accompany gambling in most of its forms are obvious to those who view the contemporary scene.

The Rev. Mr. Wilder preached on this important subject Sunday, Sept. 29, in all churches of the Woodstock Parish. The basic question, he said, is whether we dare undercut the very foundation for the support of charitable causes by changing the method of support of "good causes" from an unselfish motive to a selfish motive. Gambling is based upon a selfish motive. "Shall we support our churches and other charities because they are good, worthwhile, and helpful to our fellowman, or shall we stoop to becoming a professional gambling casino in order to make money easily? Shall we open the door for legalized gambling throughout the state?" he asked.

The people of this area are being urged to vote "No! Bingo" to the proposed constitutional amendment in the coming election. This is the position being taken by the entire New York Council of Churches," he declared.

The Wittenberg WSCS met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Vredenburg Monday night.

The WSCS of the Woodstock Methodist Church will meet at the Methodist parsonage Thursday, Oct. 3, at 1:30 p. m.

Bruhn Reserves Decision on Move To Check Minutes

County Judge Louis G. Bruhn reserved decision this morning on a motion by three suspended officers for inspection of the minutes of the Grand Jury.

His action followed submission of briefs by counsel for the three patrolmen — Special Officer Bruce Clarke, 24, of 222 Elmendorf Street, Gilbert Gray, 26, of Colonial Gardens, and Floyd Krom, 33, of 156 Fairview Avenue.

Adjourned to Thursday morning was the case of Benjamin Osterhoudt Jr., 30, of 48 Elmendorf Street, who appeared before the Grand Jury, signed a waiver and reportedly gave certain testimony, but declined to testify further when he was recalled.

Argument of a motion under a show cause order why he should not be held in contempt of court is scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Suspension of Krom, Gray and Clarke, came when they declined to sign a waiver to testify before the Grand Jury.

The suspended officers are represented by Attorney Aaron E. Klein.

Stars Aid Missile Study
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Technologists are taking a lesson from nature to perfect long-range missiles. They're studying "falling stars." Scientists at Battelle Institute here, who are conducting research for the Air Research and Development Command, are studying the chunks of metal which have soared for ages through space. They believe the meteorites will help them find ways to bolster space missiles resistance to severe heat as they re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

Change of Plea Is Allowed In Local Rape Case

One of five youths charged with rape of a 17-year-old girl on the night of July 25 at Greenkill Park, Edenville, were permitted to change his plea in Ulster County Court this morning from rape first degree to assault third degree.

Attorney Joseph Avis entered a motion that Michael Christoforo, 20, of 54 Yeoman Street, be permitted to change his plea from not guilty to the rape charge to guilty of assault third degree.

Attorney John Larkin, assistant district attorney, said the change to a lesser charge was acceptable to the district attorney.

Judge Louis G. Bruhn remanded Christoforo to the county jail pending sentencing at 10 a. m. Monday, Oct. 7.

Trial of two others, Donald DeGroat, 24, of 87 Fair Street, and Peter Ferraro, 16, of 17 Liberty Street, opened this morning. Also charged with rape first degree, but not on trial at this time, are Anthony Cecelia, 19, of 56 Sycamore Street, and Floyd Embree, 23, of 209 Greenkill Avenue.

Larkin outlined the allegations in his opening address to the jury. Avis waived his opening remarks and the prosecution called its first witness, Ethel Mae Albright, 15, of 116 Wilbur Avenue.

The girl who was allegedly raped by the five men is Katherine Christiana, who resided at 116 Wilbur Avenue with the Albright family.

Miss Albright testified that she and Miss Christiana went to a party and dance at Block Park on the evening of July 25.

Saw Her Enter Car
She said that she saw Miss Christiana enter a car with Ferraro and Embree and drive away late that night. She and her brother, Vincent, spent the next hour and a half looking for Miss Christiana, she said.

When they returned home they found Miss Christiana in her bedroom crying. Miss Albright testified that she told her brother Vincent to call police or tell Mrs. Albright, saying that the men had threatened her.

Miss Albright testified that she saw no blood on Miss Christiana's clothing, nor any bruises or evidence of violence. She said that Miss Christiana told her she had a stomach ache.

The trial was due to continue at 2 p. m. today.

Montreal Fire Spreads

MONTREAL, Que. (AP)—More than 120 firemen fought to control a blaze that destroyed a 400-foot fronting of businesses and residences in downtown Montreal today. No one was reported injured.

The fire began in an upper-story restaurant on St. Catherine Street east and spread 200 feet along St. Catherine and 200 feet south on City Hall Avenue. Several families were evacuated.

Ave to Welcome Competition for Consumer Help

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Harriman said today he welcomed competition from Republicans in programs designed to protect consumers against fraud.

However, the Democratic governor told a meeting of his consumer advisory committee he hoped legislation would be kept bi-partisan.

"There's plenty of room for everyone in this work," he asserted.

Harriman's remarks about competition obviously referred to yesterday's announcement by Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, a Republican, that he planned a consumer frauds bureau in the law department.

A committee of the GOP-controlled Legislature also has conducted public hearings on the subject.

The consumer advisory committee's meeting preceded a statewide conference called by Harriman to discuss ways of dealing with what he called phony bargains.

Harriman had been scheduled to address the full meeting but decided instead to attend the opening game of the World Series in New York this afternoon. He joked that if he did not attend, he would feel responsible if the Yankees lost.

Vols Consolidate Grip of Red Rule

SAN MARINO (AP)—About 100 communist volunteers, armed with 19th-century rifles, 20 rounds of ammunition apiece and umbrellas, today consolidated the Red government's grip on the tiny republic of San Marino.

About all that was left in the hands of a rival anti-communist provisional government was a small, abandoned steel factory at the eastern tip of the 38-square-mile territory.

A steady rain continued to fall and there was no violence yet. Most San Marinenses went about their work.

The Red volunteers, supporters of the regime that has ruled since World War II, had gained effective control of traffic into the republic entirely surrounded by Italy. They halted and searched all persons moving across the border from Italy.

The 200 San Marino police, whose Italian commander is backing the anti-communists, were out on patrol but did not interfere with the Red activities.

Faubus Firm On Statement Despite Ike

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus said today he is "standing pat" on the wording he used to accept President Eisenhower's terms for withdrawing federal troops from Little Rock Central High School.

The President has rejected Faubus' wording of acceptance yesterday and said troops would remain until the assurance from Faubus coincided with the statement worked out by a committee of southern governors.

"They write their statements up there," Faubus said. "I write my statements here."

Agrees to 2 Points

This apparently left the efforts of the four southern governors, acting as a committee for the southern governors conference, an impasse since Faubus refused to concede to their wording.

Faubus said he had agreed to two main points worked out by Eisenhower and the southern governors.

1. That he would accept "full responsibility for maintaining law and order."

2. That "I would not obstruct orders of the court" for integration.

The hitch in what appeared yesterday to be a workable solution to removal of federal troops developed when Faubus changed the exact wording which had been worked out.

He added "by me" to the prepared statement that there would be no further obstruction to the court's integration order. This left in doubt the question of whether someone else might obstruct the order.

The governors who worked out the compromise, that backfired were Frank Clement of Tennessee, Leroy Collins of Florida, Theodore McKeldin, Maryland and Luther Hodges of North Carolina, the chairman of the committee.

Shouts Greet Negroes

Meanwhile the nine Negro students attending school today were greeted with shouts and hoots when they appeared for classes but there was no disorder.

Federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen were back on duty at the big high school for the second day in a row, having relieved regulars of the 101st Airborne Division yesterday.

For the past several days, the six Negro girls and three boys have used the main entrance to Central High, making their way in each morning through a mass of between 75 to 150 white students gathered there.

No Disorder

As the Negroes left a National Guard station waving this morning, shouts and hooting arose from white students. But the Negroes, unescorted, got into the school without any disorder.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, state president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, made a rare appearance in the high school area, driving by to see if the Negro students had gotten safely inside the school.

Mrs. Bates said yesterday that the nine Negroes were subjected inside the school to what she described as organized intimidation by the white students. Mrs. Bates said objects were thrown at the Negroes by the other students.

Reaction in this southern city to President Eisenhower's offer of compromise and his subsequent announcement that federal troops would remain varied widely. It ranged from approval by a Negro leader to a comment that Eisenhower could do nothing else but backtrack under the circumstance and also drew pledges from segregation advocates that resistance would continue.

The President, after conferring with four southern governors, announced he would withdraw federal troops from Central High provided Arkansas' Gov. Orval Faubus issued a statement guaranteeing that he would not obstruct federal court integration directives and would maintain order.

Faubus issued a statement which Eisenhower said did not give the assurances the President sought. "Federal surveillance," Faubus said, "is necessary."

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, reported violence and threats to the "Little Rock Nine" on the part of white students yesterday.

Some Were Shoved

She said pencils, papers and pebbles were thrown at the children. Some of the six Negro girls were shown knives and were shoved, Mrs. Bates said.

"When they asked a guardsmen about reporting the incidents, he just moved away. They got no protection," the NAACP leader said.

Reporters saw white students apparently try to block some of the Negroes when they went to classes yesterday. The Negroes walked around the other students. One Negro girl dropped her books, or they were knocked from her grasp, and guardsmen doubled-time to her but took no other action.

Except for this incident, all appeared serene outside the school yesterday.

The National Guard took over daytime patrols at Central High for the first time, relieving paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division.

Last night, about the time of the exchange between the President and the governor, the 101st took over the guard duty again, but whether by coincidence or design no authority would say.

It was one week ago today that the school was integrated under heavy guard by the 101st, and white demonstrators driven away by the paratroopers' bayonets.

70,000 Out

day along with rookie Tony Kubek in the opening World Series game of 1957 with the Milwaukee Braves.

It was clear, and comfortable with a breeze whipping the flags atop Yankee Stadium as it blew from home plate toward right field.

One of the largest early crowds in many years moved into the 14,000 bleacher seats before the Yanks came out for their first batting practice.

Whitey Ford (11-5) was the Yankee starting pitcher against Warren Spahn (21-11), Milwaukee's 36-year-old ace in a battle of lefthanders.

It was a perfect day for baseball and a capacity crowd of close to 70,000 was expected.

Mantle was bothered by a sore left leg. Skowron's aching back pained him when he ran. Stengel named Kubek, his 20-year-old rookie, to play left field. Kubek, a Milwaukee boy, has played four positions with the Yankees this year and finished with a .297 batting average. Jerry Coleman, 33-year-old handyman infielder, got the call over 22-year-old Bobby Richardson for second base. Andy Carey was at third.

Report Due

placed with the city clerk before last night's meeting.

Such reports, he indicated, would be a source of public information. The letter welcomed the superintendent to attend the meeting.

Public Should Know

"Information," said Ryan's letter, "is the best remedy for many rumors that are continually cropping up and serve to discourage the full cooperation of all of us."

Cloonan, in reply, said that a full report was being prepared, but because of the current water supply emergency, it would not be in time for yesterday's council meeting.

"However," he wrote, "I can tell you that voluntary compliance has been exceptionally good."

The ordinance, adopted April 4, 1956, basically requires the reuse of city water in heavier air-conditioning units. It was proposed by Alderman Ryan. In commending the ordinance, the letter said: "The foresight of the council in enacting this important ordinance can more forcibly be realized during this present shortage. If you wish to go over the administration details of this ordinance, I shall be very willing to meet you at my office at any time at your convenience."

Would Wave Height Rule
The proposal that would aid the police force in obtaining more men came from Alderman Frank C. Sass (D) Seventh Ward, in a letter addressed to the police board.

Sass said it had been called to his attention that three men failed to make the last civil service eligibility list "by reason of being one-half inch short."

At present, he noted, "there are some officers on the force who do not meet our present height requirements, and they seem to be doing a commendable job. Inasmuch as our five-foot, eight-inch height requirement has been waived on at least one other occasion, and because of our urgent need for a fully manned police staff, I would like to recommend your consideration of appointment of these men."

Pass Tests, He Says
The men, he noted, have passed both written and agility tests, and he assumed they "have passed your thorough personal investigation."

The proposal was referred to the police board and to the council's laws and rules committee.

Approval of contract, as requested by the Board of Public Works for construction of curbing on Emerick Street between Hazel and Farrelly Streets, was voted. James Berardi, Inc., of Kingston, was low bidder at $3,230.

The Kingston Video Antenna Corp., through Attorney John L. Larkin, applied for a franchise to operate a television cable system, and it was referred to the Laws and Rules Committee. The corporation asked for permission to file plans and schedules and welcomed a hearing on its proposal.

Another application was made recently by a concern which now operates a similar service in Ellenville.

Asks About Snow Cost
Alderman Sass brought up the subject of snow removal cost and wanted to know why an accounting on costs has not been submitted. It was given in August last year, he said. A $20,000 item in the budget, he noted, was gone before last Jan. 6. He reported a total cost up to that time of $20,541.85. Of this $16,293.53 was for wages, $2,035.58 for materials and equipment, and $2,213.74 for other costs.

A petition with 35 signatures asked for parking meters on St. James Street as far as Clinton Avenue from Broadway, and another with 85 signatures asked for a traffic light at Clinton Avenue and St. James Street. Both were referred to the traffic control committee.

A petition for a zoning change at 122 Wurts Street, was referred to the laws and rules committee. It was filed by the law firm of Cook & Cook, and said it is proposed to build a Shell Oil Co. gas station on a property owned by Babette Pope. It held more than 30 signatures.

Claim Filed for Fall
Notice of claim for injuries was filed by John T. Wallace for Mary Wallace, of 457 Abel Street, who, it was claimed, suffered "severe personal injuries" in a fall on a sidewalk in front of 53 1/2 Hoffman Street. Amount of the claim was not given.

Turk said he had spoken to Mayor Stang about a condition on East Chester Street Extension, and nothing has been done about it. An embankment, plus the narrowness of the road, he said, does not permit vehicles, especially snow plows, to turn around. Some fill would solve the problem, he felt. He had been told, he said, of instances in which city fill was given to private property owners.

After stressing the need of street repair work in the Ulster Street area, he noted that some patchwork had been done, but some residents of the area felt that conditions were worse now than before the work was done. The council approved a one-hour parking regulation for 200 feet on TenBroeck Avenue, starting at a point 150 feet north of Cornell Street.

Wants Traffic Light
Alderman William S. Keyser (R) Second Ward, in a resolution, asked for a traffic-count study, and installation of a traffic light at Foxhall and Flatbush Avenues. It was referred to the traffic committee.

Traffic there has increased since opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, he noted, and at peak rush hours that "a pedestrian, or driver of a vehicle actually takes his life in his hands to cross Foxhall Avenue at this intersection." He noted that the police department was studying the situation. White lines and stop-streets as they now exist, he held "are not properly doing the job."

In another resolution he asked for a study for installation of proper lighting on the section of Manor Place, which has been extended to Roosevelt Avenue. He also asked for a traffic count and study at Wrentham Street and Albany Avenue because of difficulty in getting in and out of Roosevelt Park during rush hours. The first was referred to the BPW and the second to the traffic committee.

A resolution by Alderman Sass citing complaints of an odor from a catch basin at Ravine and Abel streets was referred to the BPW. The condition has been reported 15 times and residents of the area have written to the state health department, he said.

The council will meet next on Nov. 11 when it will also canvass the Nov. 5 city vote.

County Meeting

State University of New York, as the principal speaker. The advisory committee will also render its report at this meeting.

Since the May 28th meeting the advisory group has been studying the possibilities and the public demand for a community college. Numerous resolutions favoring the establishment of a community college have been received since the advisory group was established.

Anyone interested in receiving a notice of the October 15 meeting should contact Robert A. Snyder, clerk of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, or the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel building.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's rally from near the 1957 lows continued early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to around 2 points. Industrials bore the burden of the advance but the rail section also moved ahead although its gains were smaller. Utilities edged higher.

The rate of turnover was somewhat better than yesterday when 1,680,000 shares changed hands in the best rally of two weeks.

Wall Street had reportedly built up some confidence as a result of yesterday's recovery but the opening of the World Series was expected to detract, as usual, from interest in the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up $1.30 to $167.80, with the industrials up $2.30, the rails up 80 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Tillson P-TA To Hear Speaker On School Aids

TILLSON—Warren Russell of the audio-visual department of the Kingston City School system, will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of Tillson Parent-Teachers Association Thursday, 8 p. m. at Tillson School.

Russell will explain and demonstrate the method of teaching children by the use of audio-visual aids.

Issues Proclamation
Governor Averell Harriman recently issued a proclamation declaring October as "Parent-Teacher Enrollment Month." In his proclamation, Governor Harriman said: "The progressive improvement of our democratic way of life is basically dependent upon assuring our youth a broad and full education. Among the groups which have done so much for this aim are the Parent-Teachers Association."

Last year, the National membership of the P-TA was 10,694,474, and in New York state 1735 units showed an enrollment of 483,723, according to Mrs. Martin F. Huber of Buffalo, state membership chairman.

Mrs. Jeanne Oakley, president of Tillson Parent-Teachers Association, urges all parents of school children to join this month. About 50 joined the group at a meeting held the latter part of last month. Gov. Harriman has urged parents of school children and all interested in education to join the local unit of the P-TA, and to help carry forward its vital program.

The executive committee has prepared plans for the coming year and the first program Thursday evening, should prove of interest to many people. Following Russell's talk, a regular business session will be held.

Stang Advises

asked for strict screening of prospective new patrolmen.

FBI Already Scheduled
Steps have also been taken for special training for officers, which was a proposed in the grand jury report. A school will be conducted by the FBI, as was recently reported in the press.

The jury report said that its eight-phase program must become effective "if the police department is once again to have the deserved respect, which it formerly enjoyed."

The report was based on an investigation of the police department as ordered last July 11 by the police board after arrest of patrolmen on burglary charges. The department lost 11 men, through suspensions and outright release of patrolmen. The jury's report noted that 58 witnesses testified during the investigation.

Seven have been indicted as a result of the probe and four have been sentenced. Two of them, the first arrested, Joseph Keller, 23, of 512 Delaware Avenue, and Gerard McCloskey, 29, of 40 Condit Street, are now serving jail sentences.

Program Is

ute apples to other institutions, he said.

He said it might be possible for the institutions to purchase apples for juice, which would be a considerable boon to the apple industry.

Can't Be Stored

Palmer said today that the apples damaged by hail were "not finding any home at all," that they had only a limited outlet and couldn't be stored because they wouldn't "stand up."

Palmer explained that growers had hoped the state might be able to work out some kind of emergency assistance, such as the purchase of damaged apples for processing into juice or applesauce.

Feel Let Down

The growers, he said, were considerably "let down" after all the publicity emanating from Albany about purchase of the apples by state institutions.

Some of the damaged apples — 23 per cent of the Ulster county apple crop was lost — are now beyond use. Some are being sold cheaply in stores and at roadside stands, some are in cold storage.

There is still a quantity which can be used for processing purposes, however. The movement of any considerable part of the damaged crop would constitute a real "boost" for the growers, according to Hurd.

Osterhoudt Wins Over Geller in School Election

Elwood Osterhoudt of Cottekill was elected to a five-year term on the board of education of the Rondout Valley Central School District Tuesday night at the Accord School, defeating Max Geller of Kerhonkson by a vote of 413 to 329.

There were 752 qualified voters present at the school. Eight of the ballots were void. Apparently two of those attending "forgot to put their ballots in the ballot box."

In an election last July neither Osterhoudt nor Geller received a majority.

Osterhoudt's name was on the ballot but Geller received a large write-in vote.

The results were submitted to the State Commissioner of Education who ordered a new election.

Last night both names were on the ballot.

In the election held on the second Tuesday in July Geller received a large write-in vote from the Kerhonkson area, it was reported at that time.

Retrial Forecast

reaching a verdict.

McGuire did not disclose how the jurors were aligned but later juror LaGuette Drouet told newsmen the majority was for conviction. Drouet was among those favoring acquittal.

Drouet told reporters that the deliberations, which began Sept. 17, were marked by "a lot of table-pounding" and some "big fights."

Defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade heard the jury's report with disappointment.

Expected Acquittal
"We had expected acquittal," Meade said.

But Defense Atty. Arthur J. Crowley said: "I feel very good about it. After the prosecution tried everything in the book, they couldn't get a conviction."

Judge Walker ordered the prosecution and defense attorneys and the defendants to return Oct. 10 for setting of a retrial date.

Drouet told reporters that the first test vote was taken last Friday. He said the vote was 8 to 4 that a Confidential story about actress Maureen O'Hara purportedly engaging in a torrid necking party in a Hollywood theater was obscene. This story was the major issue of the trial.

armed robberies from Delaware to Texas but said he and Taylor never were forced to fire their guns until Monday, when trooper Douglas A. Vogel stopped them in a routine traffic check near Clinton.

One of them—Whitley said it was Taylor—shot Vogel and wounded him seriously, but Vogel was able to give an alarm on his radio. Pellot was killed trying to stop the fugitives.

Stealing automobiles and license plates, the pair fled southward the length of Indiana. Kellem recognized their car in Scottsburg, and he too died before their blazing guns.

Turning back north, they ran into a roadblock at Vernon, wounded trooper Robert Pond and kidnapped Deputy Sheriff Clyde Perkins, 46. Kennen drove up, took three bullets in the stomach and killed Taylor.

Whitley abandoned their car, fled into the woods and surrendered early yesterday morning as 250 officers surrounded his hide-out.

Reader Advised on Beckman Instrument As Long-Term Plan

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. A New York correspondent signs himself "Steady Reader". He asks, "would Beckman Instruments be a suitable investment to show a profit in three or four years with small risk? Will missile development help this company? Any suggestions along these lines would be appreciated."

A. To meet the objective that you have outlined, I believe that Beckman stacks up very well. The company is a small, highly respected outfit operating in fields with tremendous potentialities. Beckman "leads the pack" in designing and manufacturing precision instruments for scientific use and is firmly entrenched in the field of electronics. I like the intermediate and long term outlook for the company on the basis of past performance, management, prospects for future growth in earnings and dividends.

BECKMAN SPENDS A LOT ON RESEARCH
I am particularly impressed by the firm's research and development program. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1956, Beckman's expenditures along these lines amounted to 10% of sales and exceeded $3 million. This was 53% more than had been spent for research a year earlier. And for the nine months ended last March the rate of spending had been stepped up to 13% of sales or $3.9 million. Research expenditures retard earnings for a time but they usually pay off. Beckman's sales have grown steadily, management is sound and future growth seems assured. No cash dividends have been paid in recent years. Stock has sold as high as 47 1/2 this year and recently dropped down below 30 on weakness in the market as a whole.

I doubt if the Government missile program will help Beckman very much, except indirectly as prime contractors make use of the company's electronic data processing system. North American Aviation has already contracted to do so. Increased industrial use of Beckman's precision instruments and electronic devices is the probable cue to future prosperity. I would buy this stock, hold it and watch it grow.

However, the stock is a wide market mover and, therefore, involves considerable risk over the short term. Because of this, you should not be disturbed if there are temporary periods when it sells below your purchase price. You are buying it for its 3-to-4-year outlook.

Some Other Suggestions For Growth Gains
In the field of guided missiles which you mentioned, I like

Giannini, selling at around 12 over-the-counter. The bulk of this California firm's sales consists of automatic control instruments for aircraft and missiles. Stock is speculative but long-term outlook is good though heavily dependent on Government procurement. Cerning Glass is a very sound "research" stock that has come down considerably in price on recent market weakness. If this stock can be bought in the 65-70 zone, it should show good gains in the next 5-10 years, perhaps sooner. The company's new material, Pyroceram, has huge potentialities and is a good example of research paying off. Coming at the price I designated seems to me to be another issue that would fulfill your investment objective.

TRUE OR FALSE? Most Owners of Stock Are Wealthy Men

False. Contrary to popular belief, most owners of stock are people of very moderate means. A 1955 New York Exchange Survey showed that over half of all persons owning stock were in the group with family incomes ranging from $3000 to $7500 a year. By occupation, housewives and non-employed women constitute the largest single group, representing 34 per cent of the total. Next in order came sales and clerical personnel, accounting for 18 per cent of all share owners. The broadening base of stock ownership has been, I believe, due generally to the long bull market itself. This has developed a more wide-spread interest in stocks than I have encountered since the Twenties. Specifically, the increased number of share owners has been to a considerable extent due to the aggressive sale of mutual fund shares, which I discussed here recently, and to the Monthly Investment Plan sponsored by the New York Stock Exchange.

U. S. Allows Niagara Swimmer to Return

BUFFALO (AP)—U. S. immigration authorities have allowed a 20-year-old Toronto man, who entered this country by swimming the treacherous Niagara river Sunday, to return voluntarily to Canada.

Claus R. Kirchof, who went to Canada from Dresden, Germany, about a year ago, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of entering the U. S. illegally without inspection.

But an immigration officer, Francis J. Pompei, said he found Kirchof "a person of good character" and "decided to grant his request for a voluntary departure."

A deportation order, Pompei said, would have made it difficult for Kirchof to reenter this country.

Kirchof swam a dangerous section of the Niagara river just below the Whirlpool Rapids in Niagara Falls. He was picked up by police when they found him wet and shivering on a city street.

Falls Into Oil Vat

DALLAS (AP)—Carl W. Ely, 42, fell into a vat of 300-degree oil as he and Durrell Pierce, 23, were taking a piece of hot steel from a furnace at a heat treatment plant.

Ely went completely under, except for one hand with which he gripped the edge of the vat. Pierce quickly grabbed the hand and pulled him out.

Doctors said Ely was seriously burned, but said his clothing and Pierce's quick action saved him from more serious burns and possible death.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Anyone who thinks stamp collecting today is a kid's game is only kidding himself. It's a tremendous business, and a growing field of investment.

"Stamps have become a form of international currency," said Jack Taub, who at 26 is a dealer who does a half-million-dollar volume yearly here and in London.

"There are now 50 million collectors around the world, including 15 million in the United States."

Better Than Diamonds

"Stamps have become a tremendous hedge against inflation. That is why many Europeans, who are afraid of their own currency, are investing in stamps. If wisely chosen, they are an even better hedge than diamonds."

"Even during the depression the value of stamps dropped only 15 to 20 per cent."

But as in every other form of investment, those who seek to build a fortune in postage stamps must know what kind to buy—and when to buy them. Right now—surprisingly—United Nations issues are pacing the field in the worldwide stamp collecting boom.

A number of canny investors have already made sizable fortunes from stamps put out by the big glass house on the East River.

"I know of one man, for example," said Taub, "who invested $200 in U. N. stamps and two years later sold them for $55,000."

The reason for the explosive rise in value of the early issues of U. N. stamps lies in their rarity—and a deepening interest in the United Nations itself.

"The U. N. printed 6 million of its first stamp in 1951," recalled Taub, "and there was so little interest in them that U. N. officials burned them by the hundreds of thousands."

"In subsequent printings of further U. N. stamps the number was lowered and lowered. Then, sometime after the Korean truce, collectors awoke to the fact that perhaps U. N. was here to stay. Then the big scramble began."

"Now four to five million people are collecting U. N. stamps, and many of the scarcer issues have skyrocketed. A souvenir 15-cent sheet of stamps issued Oct. 24, 1955, today is worth $20 — and they'll be worth more."

So much interest was stirred in the U. N. stamps that dealers set up the U. N. Philatelic Information Committee, with Taub as chairman, to serve as a worldwide clearing house for these issues.

Taub says a portfolio of carefully chosen stamps will increase in value faster than a cross-section of industrial stocks or bonds.

Then why don't brokers save stamps?

"They do," said Taub, cheerfully. "So do bankers. They may do it for a hobby—but they are people who like even a hobby to show a profit."

AMERICAN MENU Methods of Preparing Food Can Lower Calorie Count

LAMB KABOBS are even more tempting when sizable squares of lean meat are broiled, seasoned with lemon and thyme.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
The calorie count of a meal can usually be lowered by the methods used to prepare the foods.

This is especially true in meat cooking, according to Beth Bailey McLean, home economist and author of books on meat cooking.

Roasting, broiling, water-cooking and modified braising are all suitable methods for use in a high-protein, low-calorie diet. This wide choice makes possible variety in the reducing menus. It also makes possible the inclusion of almost all cuts of meat. Of course, the meat must be well trimmed of visible fat, or else the fat must be "cooked out" in the preparation process.

Broiling and roasting are suitable for more tender cuts of beef and lamb. Large veal and pork cuts are roasted pieces also. For the low-calorie diet, slow broiling to well-done stage can be used even for veal and pork chops, even though these meats are not usually broiled.

When braising pot roasts, round steak, pork chops and steaks, omit the prebrowning in flour and prebrowning in fat. During the long, slow cooking in a small amount of liquid such as water, tomato juice or bouillon, some of the fat in the meat will melt and becomes part of the gravy. Only the lean should be served on the low-calorie meal. Omit the rich gravy.

Vary the seasonings on meats in the reducing menu. Lemon and tomato juice and herbs are especially recommended. Most doctors advise that salt should be kept at a minimum. This means that appetite appeal must be gained by using a variety of meats and cooking methods and that the meat should be served with a variety of low-calorie vegetables and fruits.

Instead of the usual recipe for lamb kabobs, broil sizable squares of lean trimmed meat, unmarinated and season only with lemon or tomato juice and a very little thyme. Serve with low-calorie vegetables.

TOMORROW'S DINNER (Low-Calorie): Broiled lamb kabobs with boiled onions and pickled crabapples, shredded cabbage and pimiento, Yogurt minted dressing, French bread, grapes, coffee, tea, milk.

2 on Barge Wallowing Adrift on Ontario

OSWEGO (AP)—A barge with two crewmen aboard wallowed adrift today on wind-whipped Lake Ontario, while a tug tried to rescue the men, the Coast Guard said. The Coast Guard said the tug Otco had radioed it would try to attach a line to the barge, which was cut adrift from the tug yesterday morning.

High waves that hampered the rescue attempt last night continued this morning.

The names of the marooned men were not available. The barge, owned by the Oil Transfer Co. of New York was carrying 2,112 tons of kerosene from Albany to Ogdensburg. It was cut adrift when the captain of the tug towing it accidentally caught his left foot in the tow line. The captain, Joseph H. Roberts of Waterford, was taken to a hospital after his son George had cut the line.

Search planes sighted the barge about five miles southwest of Galloo Island yesterday afternoon.

Citizens to Form Drive Against Legalized Bingo

NEW YORK (AP)—A nonpartisan citizens' committee has been formed here to campaign against legalization of bingo in New York State.

A proposal to legalize bingo, subject to restrictions will appear on the Nov. 5 ballot as Amendment 3 to the constitution.

Among the members of the committee are George Shapiro, who was counsel to former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and Gay H. Brown, past State grand master of the Masons, it was announced yesterday.

Morton B. Lawrence, president of a public relations firm here, heads the group.

He said legalization of bingo "would help to tear down the respect for law and order and subvert all of our ethical and moral standards by making legal for churches and organizations of veterans and volunteer firemen a practice which would still be a crime for all other groups."

Hits Research Grants

HAVERFORD, Pa. (AP)—Haverford College says that Defense Department grants for research are "a threat to free academic inquiry" and contrary to Quaker principles.

The college, a Quaker school, announced yesterday it would neither request nor accept such grants. It also said it would not permit its faculty to engage in any military research on campus on college time.

Arraign Bank Teller On $7,400 Theft

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—A bank teller was arraigned here yesterday on charges of grand larceny.

Police said he took $7,400 from the County Trust Co. and used the money to conceal shortages as treasurer of a church and to augment his $84-a-week bank salary. Dante D'Astolfo, 34, an employee of the bank for nine years, was released in $5,000 bail by City Judge P. Raymond Sirignano for hearing on Friday.

Detectives said D'Astolfo, who has a wife and two daughters, used $3,500 in Calvary Baptist church funds to meet urgent medical and other personal bills when he was treasurer from 1951 to 1954.

He then began to juggle the bank's funds to conceal the shortage to pay some new bills, detectives said.

Body Found in River

ALBANY (AP)—The body of a 65-year-old resident of a home for the aged was recovered from the Hudson River last night.

The man, Frank Morris, had been living at the Ann Lee Home, an Albany county institution near here.

Police found the body three hours after a tug boat captain reported seeing a man struggle in the water but then disappear.

Hagerty's Smile
Tipped Off Press
To School StoryBy ED CREAGH
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is no stranger to excitement, but it hasn't seen lately an episode like yesterday's.

The lobby was jammed with newsmen. They overflowed into the driveway in front of the executive offices. A sort of rear guard was posted at the side door, just in case the four Southern governors meeting with President Eisenhower on the Little Rock situation should come out that way.

Minutes, then hours dragged past.

Then a door opened and the reporters and cameramen who brought you the story surged into the office of Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Similar Eagerness

Hagerty smiled the faint smile that signals to White House veterans: This is a big story, men.

The Southern governors signaled it also. White-carnationed Luther Hodges of North Carolina fingered a copy of the joint statement by the White House and the governors. The mobile features of Maryland's Theodore R. McKeldin were in constant motion. Florida's prematurely gray Leroy Collins and Tennessee's equally handsome Frank Clement showed similar eagerness.

Hagerty had the privilege of announcing the news, as spokesman for President Eisenhower. It meant: If Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus would pledge to maintain law and order and not to interfere with federal court orders, Eisenhower would pull U. S. troops out of Little Rock. The governors said Faubus was ready to make such a pledge. It looked as if the gravest integration crisis to date might be peacefully resolved.

And then the bottom began to fall out.

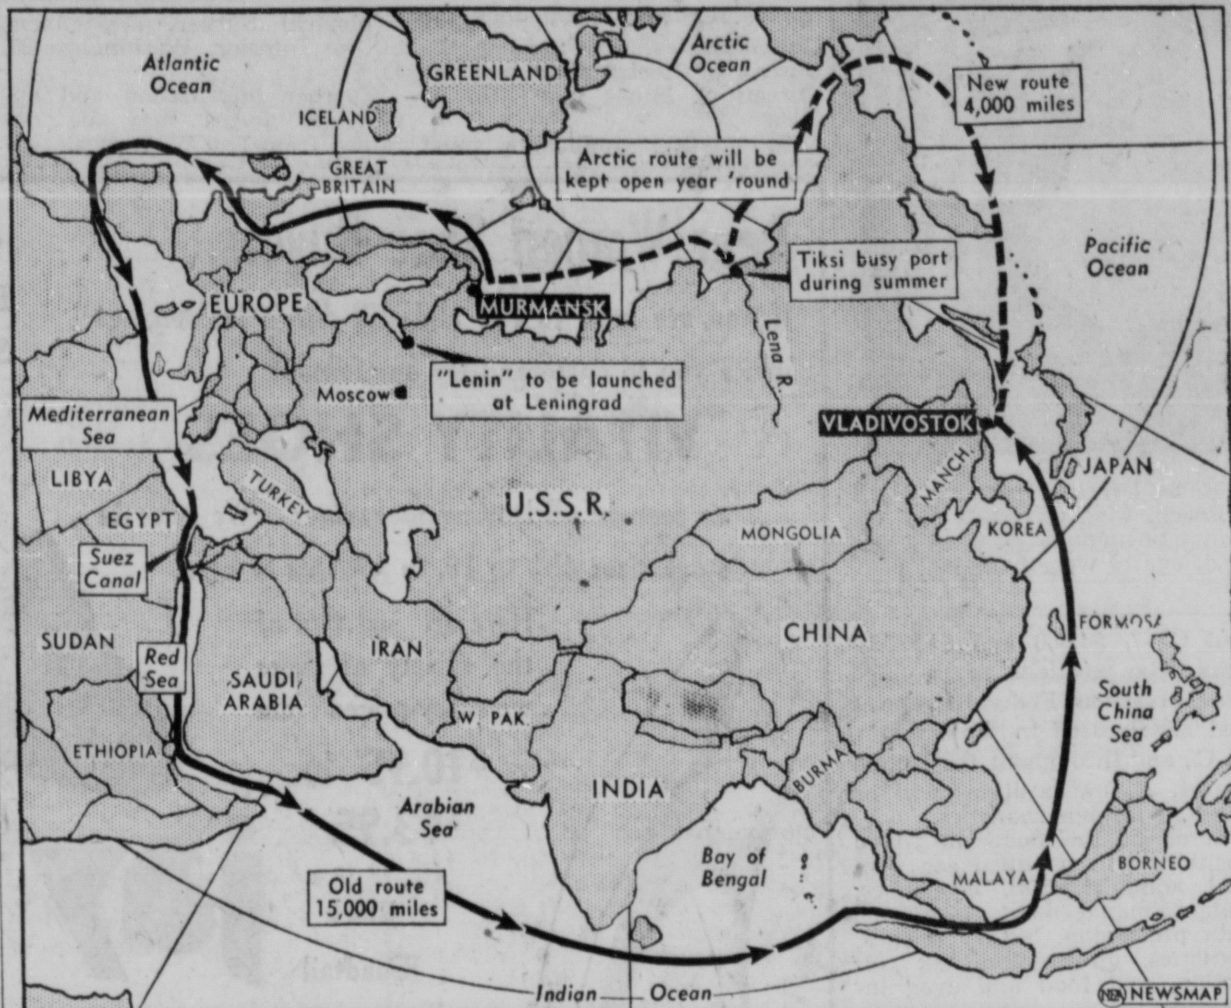

First, Faubus' "assurance" came through from Little Rock. He said he never intended to obstruct the orders of the federal courts—although a U. S. court has accused him of doing just that. He said he was prepared "as I have always been" to maintain law and order—for all that Eisenhower has indirectly blamed him for stirring up mob violence.

Not Enough: Ike

"I now declare," said the governor, "that upon withdrawal of federal troops, I will again assume full responsibility for the maintenance of law and order, and that the orders of the federal courts will not be obstructed by me."

There were more hours of waiting. Finally, as midnight approached, Eisenhower issued a statement which for all practical purposes told the governor of Arkansas: You didn't go far enough.

Eisenhower said Faubus' statement doesn't guarantee he will use his full powers to prevent obstruction of court orders. And so, said the President, there is nothing to do but keep the federal troops on duty and hope both sides will keep on trying to work out a solution. One thing seemed certain: Nine Negro children would go to school in Little Rock today still under the protection of the U. S. Army. Beyond that, it wasn't safe to predict.

ROUTE OF ATOMIC ICEBREAKER—The world's first atomic-powered surface ship, the Russian icebreaker "V.I. Lenin," will be launched at Leningrad this fall. I. K. Yakimovich, director of the Arctic museum in Leningrad, says the 16,000-ton ship, powered by nuclear-generated steam engines delivering 44,000 horsepower, will be able to keep the Arctic Ocean route from Murmansk to Vladivostok (dotted line on Newsmap) open 12 months a year. Ships have previously been able to navigate the frozen wastes, where ice is sometimes 35 feet thick, only two or three months each year. The northern route is 11,000 miles shorter than the 15,000-mile shipping line south from Murmansk to Vladivostok (unbroken line on map) through the Suez Canal and Indian and Pacific Oceans. The "Lenin" is designed to blast through even the thickest ice with "water cannons," delivering steel-hard, thin streams of water that cut ice like a knife.

Husband of Hatchet
Victim in Hospital

DUNKIRK (AP) — A 64-year-old man, taken into custody by police in connection with the hatchet slaying of his wife, has been returned for observation to the Gowanda State Hospital.

Police said Thomas Kupiec was taken into custody yesterday in connection with the death of his wife, Mary, 64.

No charges have been placed against him.

Mrs. Kupiec was found dead in the Kupiec apartment Monday. Investigators said she had been hit in the head with a hatchet, which was found in the kitchen of the apartment.

Her husband, the authorities said, was released from the Gowanda hospital last January.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Some businessmen aren't kidding when they say their profits are being squeezed today. The first corporations to report on third quarter earnings show almost half of them making less this year than last.

This trend has disturbed stock market traders as much as anything of late. They note in particular that in many cases where earnings are below former levels total sales have increased, sometimes to record highs. But operating costs have risen faster and higher toward the break even point.

The flood of third quarter earnings reports is yet to come after the accountants finish with the books closed Monday. But a number of corporations have fiscal years that don't fit the calendar year and their third quarter figures are available.

They are only an indication of what was going on among the profit and loss accounts this summer. Later and fuller reports may well overturn them.

18 Doing Better

The first 34 of these early-bird reports show 18 companies doing better than a year ago and 16 doing worse. Each year one company operated at a net loss, but it was a different firm in 1956 than in 1957.

Combined, the 34 have net income after taxes of $42,462,683 for their summer operations. In their 1956 third quarter the same 34 had profits of $44,162,323. This was a decline of 3.8 per cent.

The squeeze on profits has been growing for some time. In the first three months of this year corporate earnings topped the year ago figure by about 8 per cent—but they were just even with the before tax earnings racked up in the final three months of 1956.

By the April, May and June quarter, business profits were riding only 3 per cent above the second quarter of 1956.

Profit Ratio

A Federal Reserve Board study of 200 large corporations showed that their sales in the 1957 second quarter rose 913 million dollars above the year before figure. Their profits before taxes were up 64 million dollars. The board notes that the ratio of profits to sales this year was 13.3 per cent, while in the 1956 second quarter the percentage was 13.6.

Many businesses look for their most profitable operations to come in the last three months of the year.

That cost-price squeeze on profits is really beginning to make some concerns say such.

Reds Using Rockets As Sky Stepladder

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russian scientists are using rockets as a stepladder into the sky.

It lets them capture pure samples of thin air at "rungs" of the ladder 50, 80 or even 125 miles overhead.

When the rockets reach predetermined altitudes, they shoot out containers that open up and sniff in some of the mysterious high air. The containers then seal themselves and parachute back to earth.

This ingenious technique was described to an International Geophysical Year conference by Dr. Sergie M. Poloskov of Russia.

Other scientists have sampled the air by sucking some into rockets. But this air can become contaminated by rocket gases, Dr. Poloskov said. The Russian containers get pure samples by sniffing some distance away from the rockets.

• BRIDGE*Transfer Nips Dead-End Bids

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Another use of the Jacoby transfer bid is to keep out of impossible suit contracts when the hand will produce a no-trump game.

North's two heart response was the JTB and as such it showed his spade suit.

South made his two spade bid and then North went to two no-trump. This bid showed just what he had. Eight or nine points, a good spade suit and a hand that could play at no-trump.

With only sixteen points South might well have passed this bid but South was well acquainted with the fact that it was worth while to bid and make a game. He knew that his side could start with at least five spade tricks and he decided to gamble that he could gather in four tricks in the other suits. The way the cards lay there was no defense against three no-trump but West made things particularly easy when he opened clubs. South's ten spot won the first trick and all he had to do was to knock out the ace of diamonds to make five spades, two diamonds and two clubs for his contract.

It is interesting to note that any reasonable defense would have beaten four spades. Even with a club opening all that would be necessary was that East should lead a second club as soon as he got the lead with a heart and then put his partner in with the ace of diamonds when he won the second heart. Of course, North and South might well have reached three no-trump without the JTB. The bid just made it easy for them to get there.

Each Has Special Place in World, Novelist Advises

By TIM SMITH

BUFFALO (AP)—"The most important thing in the world is never hurt anyone."

Taylor Caldwell, the noted novelist, leaned forward from the light of the lamp, frowning as she spoke. "We all have our special place. No one of us is average. I have a place that no one else can fill and so do you. That's what I try to tell in my stories."

The world must think these stories are well told, for the 18 of her novels published have sold millions of copies and only one failed to make the best-seller lists.

Lives Quietly

Taylor Caldwell, in private life Janet Taylor Caldwell Reback, and her husband, Marcus, live modestly on a quiet street in suburban Eggertsville.

The novels of Taylor Caldwell are joint productions of husband and wife.

"My husband does all the research," she explained to a visitor recently.

"My wife's writing is inspirational," Reback said. "The plots are mostly hers and she does the writing. I do the background. Most of our books are about business and industry."

Perhaps their best known novel is "This Side of Innocence," published in 1945. It is reported to have earned them $500,000 from the film rights alone.

First Sale at 37

Although she had been writing steadily from early youth, Taylor Caldwell was 37 when her first sale, "Dynasty Of Death," was made. It was a tale of family conflict for control of a munitions firm.

She was born 56 years ago in Manchester, England, of Scotch-Presbyterian parents. Her father, a commercial artist, moved the family to Buffalo when she was six.

She married at 18 but there was a divorce a few years later.

With an infant daughter to support, she went to work as a stenographer. At night, she attended classes at the University of Buffalo.

In 1924, she went to work at the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service Office. There she met Reback, then an immigration officer.

Turn Out Novels

They were married seven years later. Mrs. Reback is now a Roman Catholic. Her husband is Jewish. They have a daughter. Both her children are married.

After marriage, the team of Reback and Caldwell went to work turning out novels.

"I go to work about midnight and write until five or six in the morning, when I go to bed. I can't stand the bright daylight—it's so depressing. My husband goes to bed at midnight.

"We have a book coming out soon called 'The Sound Of Thunder'. It's about a German-American family who start with a delicatessen and build it into a chain of grocery stores."

She flicked the ash off the end of her cigarette. "There's a lot of politics in it," she said.

Deals in Warmth, Action

Why is it that her own books are so popular?

"Well," she answered, "there's a lot of warmth and action in them. And the characters are ones that people can easily identify themselves with."

Miss Caldwell has a novel due at the bookstores this month, a half-completed biography of St. Luke on the way and a projected story based on the life of Hetty Green, one-time wizard of Wall Street.

Tired Thief

ANADARKO, Okla. (AP)—Falling asleep cost 17-year-old Herbert Martin Hensley, $53 in fines and court costs. Sheriff's officers awakened Hensley as he slept in his car, parked in the Caddo County garage. A siphoning hose was connected from a truck gasoline tank to the tank of Hensley's vehicle. Hensley said he fell asleep waiting for the gasoline to be siphoned into his tank. He pleaded guilty to petty larceny and an additional charge of driving a car with an improper muffler.

Irene L. Williams - William B. Dutcher Exchange Wedding Vows on September 29

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM B. DUTCHER

Miss Irene Lena Williams, daughter of Mrs. Alice Williams, 153 Hunter Street, became the bride of William Bert Dutcher, grandson of Mrs. Lottie Lester of 153 Hunter Street, Sunday, Sept. 29, at 2 p. m., in the First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Harold J. Stephanz, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Arthur T. Pedersen was at the organ. Henry Peyer sang "Because," "O Promise Me," and "The Lord's Prayer."

White gladioli, carnations and chrysanthemums decorated the church for the occasion.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Ernest Bodie. For the wedding she wore a gown of white embroidered tulle fashioned with a fitted bodice, short sleeves with matching gauntlets and an Italian neckline. The full skirt was floor length. A crown of pearls held a French illusion fingertip veil. The bride carried a cascade of white roses.

Miss Louise Williams, sister of the bride, served as the maid of honor. She wore a nylon chiffon floor length gown in baby pink. It was styled with a shirred bodice, elongated waistline and bouffant skirt. Her headpiece was a velvet crown of pearls dyed to match the gown.

She carried a cascade of yellow carnations.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Dutcher, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Nancy Beesmer of 112 Wurts Street. Their gowns were styled identically as that worn by the honor attendant except in blue. They carried pink carnations.

William Sickler of 149 Abeel Street served as best man. Ushers included James Donahue of 50 Ravine Street and Andrew Perpetua of Glasco, nephew of the bride.

A reception was held at Aiello's Restaurant for approximately 100 guests.

Mrs. Dutcher is employed by IBM in Kingston. She attended Kingston High School. Her husband, who also attended Kingston High School, is employed by H. T. Van Deusen and Son, Plumbing and Heating.

The bride's traveling ensemble for her trip to New York, consisted of a charcoal grey coat-dress with black accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

The couple plan to make their home at 177 Hunter Street.

Mrs. Fred Illert Feted at Party

Mrs. Fred Illert of 53 Crown Street was honored on her birthday, Sunday, Sept. 29, at a dinner party given by Ernest Bergman, at his home, The Friendly Gate, Rt. 4, Kingston.

Guests included Fred Illert, Mr. and Mrs. Burton J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Burton C. Davis, of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stauber of New York, Miss Kathleen Lyons of New York and Miami Beach, and Miss Marianne Davis of Tacoma, Wash.

A CHECK ALREADY PAID

Dear Mrs. Post: I went to lunch alone the other day and shortly after a young man from my office came into this same restaurant and sat at the table with me. As he was in a hurry, he finished his lunch quickly and left before I did. When I looked for my check I couldn't find it and was told that the young man paid it. I was rather upset over this as I know he doesn't make too much money. Would it have been improper to offer him the money for my lunch when I got back to the office?

Answer: I think you could have said to him, "Thank you very much, John, but I wish you would let me repay you for my lunch" and then offered him the money. If he said, "No, please let me do it," or "It was a pleasure to do it," then you would say, "Thank you very much. I do appreciate your kindness, but please don't do it again."

Opening A Gift Box of Candy

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening I invited a couple to dinner. They brought me a box of candy. I thanked them for it but did not open it while they were there because I had other candy in a candy dish which I passed around. My husband thinks I was very rude to lay it aside and not open it, even though I had other candy. Will you please tell me if I was wrong not to have opened the box of candy they brought and passed it around?

Answer: It would have been more polite and shown your appreciation of their gift had you opened the box after dinner and passed it around.

Is A Second Gift Necessary

contributed to the office collection for a wedding gift for her and I am wondering if it is necessary to send her a separate gift since I have been invited to the reception.

Answer: Having contributed to the office collection, this is sufficient. Of course, if the amount you contributed was trifling and you are very fond of the bride, you might give her a second, not necessarily expensive, but attractive present.

Another Darrow

NEW YORK, (AP)—Frank Conroy has been signed to portray Clarence Darrow, famous trial lawyer, in Broadway's upcoming drama "Compulsion." Conroy last season won a Tony Award of the American Theatre Wing for his performance as a disillusioned priest in Graham Greene's play "The Potted Shed." The last portrayal of a role based upon Darrow's career was Paul Muni in "Inherit the Wind."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

New York City is well-known as an Atlantic Ocean port and the port of Albany swung into a celebration in 1950 on the occasion of their deeper Hudson river port.

I have before me the Albany Times Union of Sunday, August 6, 1950 when the Times Union was celebrating its 95th year and the page before me is headed: "Port of Albany back on the sea." The item, written by Leo W. O'Brien, member of the Albany Port Commission reads in part: "The port of Albany, born 25 years ago after a long fight for the deeper Hudson, celebrates its 25th anniversary this year with another deeper Hudson campaign in full swing. The Times-Union was one of the original supporters of the original campaign to bring ocean vessels to Albany through a deepened river channel."

His tracing of the earliest days of the world's commerce the Port of Albany sent ships to France, England, Holland, West Indies and China with grain, lumber, furs and horses. In 1785 the sloop "Experiment" cleared from Albany to China. Return cargoes from these countries were rum and sugar from the West Indies, dry goods, hardware, bricks and wine from France, England and Holland.

Thus, the Hudson River from Albany to the sea provided a water route for sailing vessels as it does today for ships of 15,000 tons.

He further states: "On March 3, 1925 a rivers and harbors bill authorized $11,200,000 to deepen the Hudson River to 27 feet at mean low water from Hudson to Albany. South of Hudson the natural channel provided 27 feet or greater."

Even before the channel was completed, ocean going ships were working cargoes over the docks that were under construction. Waterfront sheds, warehouses, docks, paved roadways, water and sewers, power lines, railroad tracks, lumber terminal and harbor dredging were completed within the years 1926 to 1932.

On June of 1932, the late Peter G. Ten Eyck, chairman of the Port Commission announced to the shipping world the Port of Albany was officially opened for waterborne commerce. A two days' celebration highlighted by the dedication speech of Governor of New York State, Franklin D. Roosevelt, opened the ceremonies. Officials of the federal, state and city governments, representatives of foreign nations, steamship companies, importers, railroads and manufacturers, attended to open the Hudson River port of Albany to world's traffic.

It is exciting to know that we are on the same Hudson River as Albany, that we are only 50 miles away, that an excellent Thruway connects us. It is said that flags of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Spain, Germany, France, Great Britain, Holland, Greece, Belgium, Panama, Canada and other countries can be seen at one time or other flying from the stern of ships moored at the Albany dock.

It is difficult to believe that all these steamers stemmed from the Robert Fulton's "Folly," Clermont which passed our shores. We had our pleasure boats when the Hudson River Day Line used to stop at Kingston Point Park. We had our Mary Powell. Old timers remember the Albany Night boat which started as soon as the ice was out of the river and kept going right up until the next freeze.

Folks remember the moonlight sails up or down the river. That may be all gone for us, but the Hudson River is still there to service us when we so desire.

Cabbage and onions are not, as a rule, steamed because this cooking pressure brings out their strong flavor.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of television's busiest film makers is an international lady of much laughter.

A chuckle, says Nicole Milnair, can take care of everything from flatterers to censors—and perhaps keep a damsel feminine in a very masculine world.

Mrs. Milnair, a voluble and vigorous Paris blonde who might pass as Doris Day's twin, is executive producer of movies for Sheldon Reynolds.

Comedy Is Added

To such previous series as "Foreign Intrigue" and "Sherlock Holmes," the enterprise has added its first situation comedy project, "Dick and the Duchess," on view Saturday evenings over CBS-TV.

"I never take myself too seriously," explains Nicole of her intensive TV career which had its odd beginning just seven years ago.

"I laugh most when they try flattery," she adds, expressing high skepticism of praise. "I cut that immediately."

Mrs. Milnair also responded with laughter to certain blue-pencilling suggested by the network. Someone didn't like it when in one episode Margaret Rutherford, elderly English star, is called on to remark "I have been smooching since I was 12 years old."

Perhaps, it was suggested, that could be changed to 15? "I laugh hysterically," reports Nicole. "No change was made."

In another place, however, a change was made—Miss Rutherford was described as widowed seven times instead of married seven times.

Since Nicole is acutely aware of the value of laughter, she even arranged that the dubbed-in sound track of merriment which has become an inevitable part of all TV comedy films, be heard here.

The films were made in London, but Mrs. Milnair regards response as a strictly domestic asset.

"The English chuckle. They do not understand many things that make Americans laugh," she explains. "In this country you guffaw."

As executive producer, she handles everything from script selection to locating shooting sites, deciding on lighting and planning future projects.

"I go fast, work fast, think fast," she summarizes. "One hour with me is like four hours with anyone else."

Her objective, she explains, in filming shows for U. S. exhibit, is to supply variety.

"You first do a show with good taste, then add whatever you think is lacking in the others," says Nicole.

Governor Maintains N. Y. Low-Tax State

ALBANY (AP)—Gov. Harriman says businessmen should not complain too much about taxes lest they discourage new industry from entering the state.

"Don't make it look like New York is not a fine place to do business in," the governor said yesterday at an industrial development workshop sponsored by the Commerce Department.

Harriman said businessmen were apt to complain too much about their taxes. He maintained New York was a low-tax state.

Red Target for D

MOSCOW (AP)—The army newspaper Red Star said today "war-mongering American generals" mongering American "generals." The paper chose as its special target for the day the military commentator of the St. Louis-Dispatch, claiming he had "bellowed out for all to hear 'that the oceans and the seas now belong to the United States.'" Red Star said U. S. claims are so widespread that if someone asks some day soon what the sun is, some U. S. general will reply: "That's an American star."

Yanks Still Favored Despite Condition of Mantle, Skowron

New York Stars Start Against Braves in Opener

NEW YORK (AP)—The uncertain condition of Mickey Mantle's tender left leg and Bill Skowron's aching back belied the 8-5 odds on the New York Yankees today as the Milwaukee Braves clashed with the American League champions in the opener of what promised to be the richest of all 54 World Series.

The crowd of some 70,000 which came out to Yankee Stadium to view the southpaw duel between New York's Whitey Ford and Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, was not expected to see either Mantle or Skowron at their best, although both were listed late last night as almost certain starters.

Unless the two sluggers, who between them hammered 51 home runs and drove in 181 runs during the regular season, get healthy quick—and this would be a real upset—the pick here is a seven-game series triumph for the Milwaukee Braves of Wisconsin. The picture of a hobbling Mantle on a painful leg in the 1955 series against Brooklyn, the only series lost by the Yankees in nine October classics since 1942, is still clear in the writer's mind.

Running Brings Pain

Mantle cannot run without pain. He even winces when he misses one of his powerhouse swings, from either side of the plate. Skowron says it doesn't hurt him to swing but it does hurt when he runs. It would come as no surprise if either or both were unable to do full time in the series.

There is still some doubt about Ford. Although the ace lefthander appears to be back in true stride following a sore shoulder siege, there is some doubt whether he can undergo the strain of pitching twice or three times in one week, as the opening day pitcher usually is usually called upon to do in a long series. And because the teams appear so evenly matched, the outlook is for a long series.

The Braves, on the other hand, are in excellent physical shape, with the possible exception of Joe Adcock. The big first baseman's left leg, broken last July, still isn't 100 per cent. Adcock, a long-ball hitting right-handed batter, was slated to start against Ford today.

However, manager Fred Haney indicated he may shift to the left-handed hitting Frank Torre, who filled in so capably for Joe during the summer when the Yankees use a righthander.

Stengel, who had expected to come back with another lefthander, Bobby Shantz, in the second game, appeared uncertain after yesterday's workout at Yankee Stadium.

Casey Uncertain
"I'm not so sure lefthanders are a better bet than righthanders against Milwaukee," Casey said. "My Thursday pitcher depends upon what happens to my Wednesday pitcher. If the Braves should treat Ford a little too roughly, I'll probably give them Bob Turley (a righthander). If Whitey does a commendable job, it will be Shantz."

Haney has no doubt regarding his starters, although he insisted after the Braves' workout yesterday he was prepared to pitch everybody in every game. You can be sure that it will be Lew Burdette tomorrow and Bob Buhl Saturday in Milwaukee.

Stengel, who did not attend his team's workout because of his presence in Commissioner Ford Frick's office for a pre-series conference on rules and deportment, was a little testy later when asked for his starting lineup. He finally gave in with a tentative one but hedged on two positions—left field and second base. The only certain starters were catcher Yogi Berra, shortstop Gil McDougald, right fielder Hank Bauer and Ford. Mantle and Skowron, of course, were to be in center and first base, barring a last minute change.

In left field, Stengel said it would be Tony Kubek, his versatile 20-year-old rookie, or Elston Howard. If Skowron could not make it, Stengel had Howard ready to step in at first. At second, it figured to be the veteran Jerry Coleman over 22-year-old Bobby Richardson.

Braves Lineup Set
There was no doubt about the Braves' lineup. It was Henry Aaron, Pafko and Covington in the outfield; Adcock at first, the reliable Red Schoendienst at second, Johnny Logan at short and Mathews at third; Del Crandall behind the plate and Spahn on the mound.

Spahn, only Brave pitcher with World Series experience, had a 1-1 record against Cleveland in 1948. Ford, who hurled two previous openers, opened with a 4-2 series record. He won the opener against Brooklyn at Yankee Stadium in 1955 and lost the opener to the Dodgers at Ebbets Field in 1956. The series, because of the large

Auburn Firemen First in Line

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Kierst, 66, a fireman from Auburn and a red hot Yankee fan, was first in line today to get a bleacher seat for the first World Series game at Yankee Stadium.

He started his vigil at dawn yesterday and was among 500 men, women and children who waited in line all night. Many had folding cots.

The number grew to about 1,700 by 7:05 a. m., when bleacher seats went on sale.

Basilio Vacates Welter Crown; Gets NBA Award

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. today vacated the welterweight title of Carmen Basilio, the new middleweight ruler, and then pronounced him "boxer of the month."

Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA's ratings committee, said it was customary for a champion moving up to a higher division, as Basilio has done, to surrender his old title.

But, in Basilio's case, "out of consideration for his past reputation as a boxer of integrity and courage," Saddy said the NBA gave him 10 days to make up his mind. The 10-day period expired today with no word from Basilio, Saddy said.

Basilio, 30-year-old former onion farmer from Chittenango, N. Y., won "boxer of the month" designation in the NBA's October ratings for his split-decision victory over Sugar Ray Robinson in their middleweight title bout at New York Sept. 23. The defeat dropped the 37-year-old Robinson to the No. 1 contender's slot.

In order to stir up interest in the welterweight division, Saddy said, the NBA would like Tony DeMarco, Isaac Logart, Vince Martinez and Gil Turner, the four leading contenders, to compete in a tournament leading to a new champion. If Virgil Alkins, recently defeated by Turner, can prove his claim that his hand was broken during the fight, he also would qualify for the round robin.

U. S. Ryder Stars Arrive in England

LINDRICK, England (AP)—The top players of American professional golf have arrived here for the Ryder Cup—and that means as much excitement in this north-of-England village as the World Series does in Milwaukee.

Maybe Britain has won the Ryder Cup only twice in 11 tries. Maybe the last time was 24 years ago. Maybe the bookies don't give a candle for Britain's chances this time.

But it is the first time the match has gone on at this little known course bordering Yorkshire, Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire. So golfers around here and the thousands from neighboring towns and villages mean to see the Yanks in action.

Officials forecast that crowds will average 10,000 a day for the two-day match starting Friday.

American captain Jack Burke of Belaire, Tex., praised the texture of the grass on the Lindrick fairways of the par 34-36-70 Lindrick course and said:

"It's just great to play on such a well kept course."

Redskins Trade Wells to Steelers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Billy Wells, Washington halfback who led the Redskins in rushing as a rookie three years ago, yesterday was traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Wells, a star at Michigan State before the Redskins drafted him, was dealt to the Steelers for an undisclosed choice in the next National Football League selection of college players.

Washington also released defensive halfback Gary Lowe, another ex-Michigan Stater, on waivers, making him subject to claim by another NFL team.

seating capacity of both parks, was expected to set a new money record for the players. The game was set to start at 1 p. m. with national radio and television (NBC) coverage. The weatherman said it would be mostly fair with the temperature in the high 70s.

Series Notes

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Hubbell, the old New York Giants' southpaw, picks Gene Conley as the potential star of the World Series, which opened in the Yankee Stadium today between the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves.

Said Hubbell of the stringbean Braves' hurler. "He is particularly effective against a club the first time they see him. With those long arms and legs you don't know where the pitch is coming from."

"A good guy to have rooting for you," observed Conley.

Boudreau to Cubs
The Chicago Cubs are expected to sign Lou Boudreau, the deposed manager of the Kansas City A's, as a coach before the series ends... Manager Jack Tighe of the Detroit Tigers reported that Kansas City offered him Billy Martin for pitcher Billy Hoelt, even up, and he turned it down... Speaking of the Tigers, Ray Boone probably will go on the block this winter with Charley Maxwell taking over first base.

Braves' manager Fred Haney hasn't let the pressure dissipate his sense of humor. Told that Yank pilot Casey Stengel was worried about the physical condition of Mickey Mantle and Moose Skowron, he laughed: "Tell Casey that I'll let him add two players if either of those guys is out."

Dickey Present
Yanks ailing coach Bill Dickey is on hand and he received a royal welcome... Charlie Silvera, ex-Yank catcher now laboring for the Chicago Cubs also is on hand... This is the first series in Stengel's eight that Silvera has not been a member of the team... First to buy a bleacher ticket was Charles M. Kierst, a 66-year-old Auburn, N. Y., fireman, who said he has been No. 1 man on the bleacher list six times in seven tries.

Milwaukee starter Warren Spahn joshingly warned the Yanks not to look for his famous change-up, claiming "I'm different this year." "Ha," scoffed Yanks' Hank Bauer, "different after 20 years."

Milwaukee's big first baseman, Joe Adcock, thinks there will be few home runs, that neither club has a decisive edge... He also reported his injured leg still is weak.

Bromley Leads Saratoga Drivers In Fall Meeting

SARATOGA SPRINGS — Don Bromley, who won this year's summer meet driving championship at Saratoga Raceway, also has come forward as a strong candidate for title honors at the current Spa fall meet.

Universal Driver Rating System averages including races of last Saturday night show Bromley in front with a lofty percentage of .525. The lanky 32-year-old Hudson Falls reinsman took over the lead last Friday night when he acquired sufficient starts for ranking.

Through Saturday, Bromley had eight wins, four seconds and four thirds in 22 starts. High though his average was, he was only 28 percentage points to the good of the surprising Harold Dobbin of Baldwinsville, with .497. Completing the first five were Clarence Franklin of Saratoga Springs with .341, Pete Dailey of Wilton with .333 and Fred LaRouche of Saratoga Springs with .321.

Prior to Bromley's assumption of the lead Friday, five other drivers had been on top for two or more nights each beginning with the completion of the third night of the meet. They were Dobbin, Franklin, Frank Jevons, Harold Miller and Steve Thomas.

Leading race-winning driver for the first three and half weeks of the meet that is slated to end Oct. 12 was Tony Ambo with 14 victories. Ambo hails from nearby Greenfield Center.

Syracuse Eleven Shuffles Lineup

SYRACUSE (AP)—Lineup changes were a dime a dozen yesterday as Syracuse University prepared for its football encounter Saturday with Boston University.

Coach Floyd (Ben) Schwartzwalder said he was putting Glenn Preising at the left end position ahead of Dick Aloise. Schwartzwalder also announced the switch of Dan Fogarty from quarterback to right halfback. Fogarty had been subbing for Chuck Zimmerman, first team quarterback.

Jim Anderson, a sophomore fullback, was moved from that post to left halfback in the wholesale changing.

Flanagan 6-5 Ring Pick

CHICAGO (AP)—Del Flanagan of St. Paul, who says he has added a new punch to his ring tactics, is a 6-5 favorite to defeat sturdy Yama Bahama of the West Indies tonight.

The 10-round middleweight scrap will be televised and broadcast nationally (ABC, 10 p. m.) at Chicago Stadium.

Flanagan, who has beaten some of the best in the welterweight and middleweight divisions in his 101 fights, outpunched Tiger Jones in a TV thriller at St. Paul in August and has won five of his last six outings. Kid Gavilan and Ramon Fuentes have been among his victims. He dropped a split decision to Gil Turner.

Flanagan admits there was a time when he was thinking of quitting the ring, until Bernie Glickman became his manager. "He said I had the ability to beat them all," Flanagan said, but that I should do some slugging, not just be a clever boxer. He told me to fight flat-footed and punch more. I gave it a whirl and have been amazed at the results."

Flanagan has won 85 fights, 33 of them by kayoes. He has lost 14 and had two draws.

Bahama has won 44, lost seven, and had two draws.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—At an age when most men spend their days in a rocker, Fred Egan will observe his 78th birthday Thursday riding a sulky in quest of an upset win in the $50,460 Kentucky Futurity.

Egan, probably the oldest man in the nation competing in big-time sports, will drive Cassin Hanover against favored Hoot Song and Time Me and 10 other sophomores in the last leg of harness racing's triple crown.

The classic for 3-year-old trotters will be decided by the best two of three mile heats over the Lexington Trot's fast red mile, where many world records have been set.

Sooners and Spartans Head Saturdays Picks

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Here are next Saturday's college football picks:

Oklahoma over Iowa State—The Sooners show their new model crusher to the home folks. No sweat fins but it does have Clendon Thomas.

Michigan State over California—After you have seen the World Series game on your TV you can relax with coach Duffy Daugherty as his Spartans romp over the Californians.

Navy over North Carolina—The Navy eleven this year is of the battleship class. A cruiser might do the trick here because North Carolina still is a year away.

Baylor over Miami—Houston beat Miami, Baylor beat Houston. For that reason Baylor should beat Miami.

Oregon State over Northwestern—Because Joe Francis and Earnl Durden play for the West Coast Beavers.

Dartmouth over Penn—Frank Riepl's absence because of injury will hurt the Penns.

Ohio State over Washington—Neither team has shown to advantage so far but the Buckeyes should take this one.

Notre Dame over Indiana—Aubrey Lewis to give the Hoosiers a long, dreary afternoon.

North Carolina State over Clemson—Dick Christy and Dick Hunter combine to give the Wolfpack revenge for last year's 13-7 setback.

Iowa over Washington State—The West Coast team's passing attack no match for Iowa's defensive minded Hayeyes. Last week Utah State wound up its game against Iowa with a minus 6 yards rushing for the day although scoring two touchdowns.

Michigan over Georgia—The Wolverines get ready for the big game with Michigan State next week.

Duke over Maryland—It is homecoming for Duke and the grads will be back to watch Hal McElhaney cavort.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

Friday Night
Pittsburgh over Southern California.

Saturday

East—Boston College over Quantico Marins, Princeton over Columbia, Cornell over Harvard, Villanova over Iowa State, Penn State over Army, Holy Cross over Dayton, Syracuse over Boston University, Brown over Yale.

Midwest—Huston over Cincinnati, Colorado over Kansas, Illinois over Colgate, Kansas State over Nebraska, Tule over Marquette, Texas A&M over Missouri, Oklahoma State over Wichita, Wisconsin over West Virginia, Purdue over Minnesota.

South—Tennessee over Mississippi State, Vanderbilt over Alabama, Wake Forest over Virginia.

Southwest—Arkansas over Texas, Christian, Rice over Stanford, Texas over South Carolina.

Far West—Air Force Academy over Detroit, Utah over Idaho, Arizona State over San Jose, Wyoming over Utah State, UCLA over Oregon.

Schedule Being Completed

Jurkowski, New Swim Coach At YMCA, Ready Team

Swimming will be a bigger and more popular sport than ever at the Kingston YMCA if present plans follow through.

For the first time in many a moon, the local Y will be represented by a swim team which will be coached by John Jurkowski, former RPI record-holder.

The Y has secured 21-year-old Jurkowski to coach swimming and organize teams to compete in regular meets against area YMCAs.

Jurkowski, who is a native New Yorker, but now resides in Kingston and works at IBM, is a valuable addition to the staff. He holds almost every mark at the Troy institution and captained Engineers his junior and senior years.

Set 5 Marks
While an undergraduate, Jurkowski established standards in five events. He holds marks in the butterfly breast-stroke, orthodox breaststroke and individual medley at distances of 200 yards and for the orthodox breaststroke and butterfly breaststroke at 100 yards.

These achievements earned him the coveted "Athlete of the Year" award his senior year.

Jurkowski also was a stand-out in actual competition. He took second place in the State championships, fifth in Eastern Intercollegiate competition and sixth in the national championships.

The new tutor holds both Bachelor of Electrical Engineering and Master of Science degrees from RPI. While studying for his Masters, he coached the RPI frosh swimmers.

Jurkowski graduated from Haaren High School in New York. He learned his swimming at the Brooklyn Central Y.

Organize Team
"I am looking forward to forming a team and starting a schedule by early November," Jurkowski said. "We hope to schedule Newburgh, Middletown, Troy and Poughkeepsie to start with. Boys up to 18 are invited to come out."

Seven boys have already reported at last count. Lessons and workouts have been scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoon each week.

Jurkowski, who weighs 212 and stands 6-3½, has set down several aims.

1) To give the boys the same top-notch instruction he received from his coach at the Central Y.
2) To instill spirit and teach them the importance of winning and losing graciously.
3) To help build healthy bodies and minds.

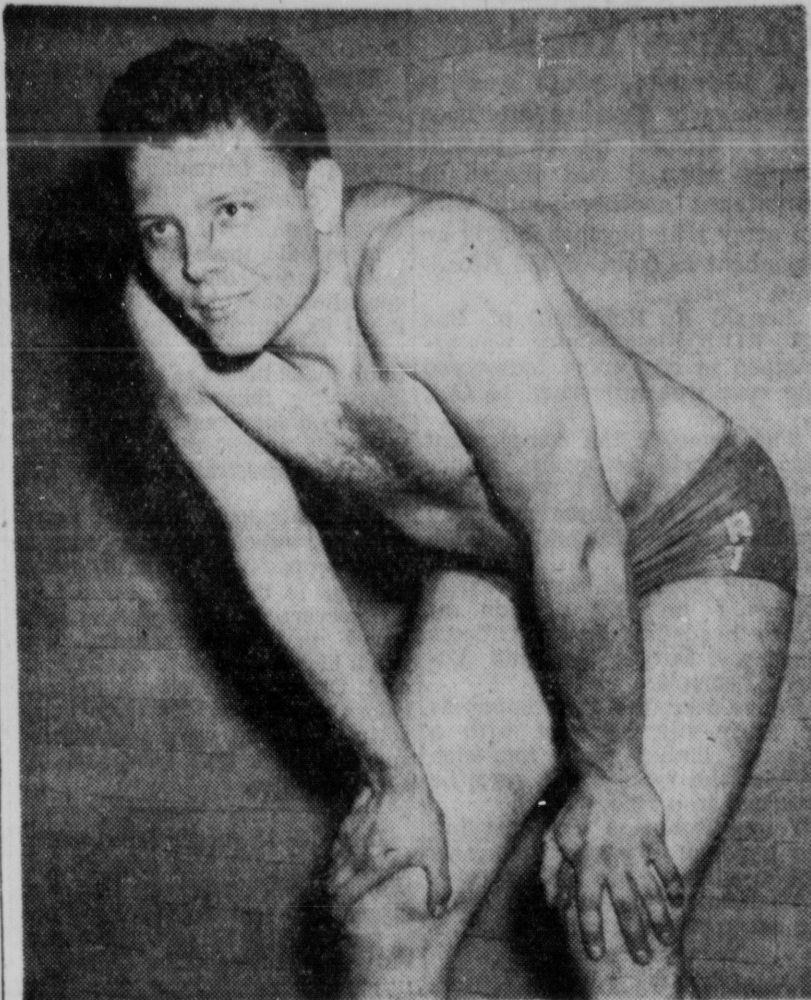

Top Golfers Win In Senior Event

PARAMUS, N. J. (AP)—The form charts get another going over to-day in the United States Golf Assn.'s third senior amateur championship at the Ridgewood Country Club.

Defending champion Fred E. Wright of Watertown, Mass. and medalist Thomas M. Green Jr. of Seattle both scored 6 and 5 victories yesterday in the first round of match play.

Wright knocked off Roy L. Corey, Syracuse, N. Y., with even par for 13 holes. Green was eight over in turning back James A. Swink, Alexandria, Va.

J. Wood Platt, Philadelphia, who won the first championship two years ago, was defeated 8 and 7 by Chris Carr, Hamburg, N. Y.

JOHN JURKOWSKI

Sugar Gets Off With Warning

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson's testimony that he never had received a direct offer of a bribe to throw a fight got him off with a mild rebuke by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The hearing was called yesterday to inquire into published reports quoting Robinson that he had been approached. He said that his remarks probably were misunderstood, that many "cracks" were made to him during his career.

Also testifying before the commission, headed by Chairman Julius Helfand, were two sports writers—Murray Rose of the Associated Press and Harold Weissman of the New York Daily Mirror. Both testified that they were at a press conference on Sept. 20 in which Robinson said he had received bribe offers but did not report them.

A portion of a story by Joe Nichols in the New York Times, who also was at the press conference, was read. Nichols wrote that Robinson said he had received bribe offers early in his career.

"There is an apparent difference of interpretation of what Robinson is alleged to have said and what he says now," observed Helfand.

Then he admonished Robinson to be careful of making statements that might be misinterpreted.

Bosox Drop Albany

ALBANY (AP)—The Boston Red Sox yesterday cancelled their working agreement with Albany in the Class A Eastern League. The Red Sox will work with Allentown, Pa., a former St. Louis Cardinal farm that was not represented in the six-team league last year.

$1,256 Daily Double

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Lucy To You and Sweet Cookie, combined yesterday to produce the biggest daily double in two years at Beulah Park, $1,256.

German Sled Boss Iried at IOC for Dropping Event

Germany (AP)—Germany's bobsled boss is angry with the International Olympic Committee (IOC) and the Organizing Committee of the 1960 Olympic Winter Games in Squaw Valley, Cal., for dropping bobsled competition from the program.

Hanns Killian, president of the German Bobsled Federation, charged yesterday that the American organizers "for purely financial reasons" gave misleading information to the IOC, which in turn agreed to scratch bobsledding from the 1960 list of events.

Lake Placid, N. Y., had requested that the bobsled event be held there.

The IOC decision was made in Sofia, Bulgaria, last week when spokesmen for Squaw Valley said it would cost $750,000 to build a bobsled run and that only two nations had entered the event.

Killian said none of the European bobsled federations had yet received an entry application and therefore none could enter the event. He said Germany would have competed, with the probable addition of Italy, Switzerland and Sweden.

Tatum Blanked

Raleigh, N. C. (NEA)—North Carolina State is now 3-0 against Jim Tatum-coached North Carolina football teams. The Wolfpack won 21-14 in 1942 when Tatum was at Chapel Hill, prevailed 26-6 last fall and 7-0 this season.

Doodle Dandy

New York, (NEA)—The songs, "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Give My Regards To Broadway," were introduced in 1904 in a George M. Cohan musical about the riding feats of Tod Sloan.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

Army is in position to set up a terrific eastern season, Oct. 5, and is picked to do just that by edging Penn State at University Park, say 21-14.

Notre Dame has only to hurdle Indiana, which the Irish should do by four or five touchdowns, to come into the Army game in Philadelphia's huge Municipal Stadium, Oct. 12, unbeaten. This one will equal the Army-Navy spectacle in attendance with 97,400, which is all the paid admissions the place will hold.

AND FOR THE first time in three years, Army opened the season with complete faith in its quarterback, Dave Bourland having established himself last fall.

After Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Oct. 19, is the only other serious challenger of Army before the Navy battle, Nov. 30.

This Army-Navy game is going to be considerably more than a parade of the brass, for Annapolis quickly demonstrated that it has one of the finest college squads in the land. The Midshipmen figure to repel North Carolina by a pair of touchdowns this week. Their toughest assignments come against Notre Dame and Duke on successive weekends, Nov. 2 and 9.

THIS IS ANOTHER WEEK of intersectional games before the lads start slugging it out in their own conferences.

Baylor is given a two-touchdown edge over Miami in Coral Gables. Washington State repulsed Nebraska and California, but the Cougars are a run-sheep-run outfit which will find the solid Iowa side something else again at Iowa City. Make the score 42-14. Wisconsin appears a bit too accomplished for West Virginia. Oregon State two touchdowns stronger than Northwestern.

Texas A. and M. smacks Missouri. Rice is the choice over Stanford in a high scoring game. Texas has sufficient horses to similarly slip by South Carolina and tackle Oklahoma unbeaten.

Pittsburgh and Southern California is a pick 'em, but I'm stringing with the slow-developing Panthers. It must be remembered here that the Trojans cannot employ seniors. Ohio State bounces back at Washington and Michigan State again runs hog wild at California. In a league game on the Pacific coast, UCLA, sans seniors, still is a touchdown better than Oregon.

IN THE BIG EIGHT Oklahoma belts Iowa State, as per usual, and Colorado gets the call over Kansas in a tight deal. Toss a coin to decide the winner in a wild scoring Southwest Conference argument between Arkansas and Texas Christian, but this handicapper is stringing with the Razorbacks. Minnesota gets off a-wing in the Big Ten against Purdue.

In the South, Tennessee gets hunk for the reverse by Auburn at the expense of Mississippi State and it's Kentucky over Florida in a photo finish. Maryland is to be whacked again, this time by Duke, and North Carolina State keeps moving against Clemson.

In the East, Princeton has too many guns for Columbia, despite the Donelli miracle against Brown, which figures to get even at Yale. Cornell should get going in Harvard's curtain-raiser.

But keep in mind that these are college boys.

Pitt End Wins Lineman Award

By The Associated Press

With only 22 seconds left, end Art Gob caught a touchdown pass Saturday night at Portland, Ore. that resulted in a 6-3 victory for Pitt over Oregon.

That achievement brought the 20-year-old Pitt wingman the Lineman of the Week Award today in the first Associated Press poll of the season.

The 64 junior from Baldwin Boro, a Pittsburgh suburb, had raced into the end zone before catching a 22-yard aerial from Ivan Tomic for the TD that turned apparent defeat into victory for the Panthers.

Dick Carr, a Pitt guard, also earned votes in the balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters. He blocked a punt late in the first quarter that gave Pitt the ball on the Oregon 25 and helped set the stage for Gob's game-winning catch.

Comiskey Suggests Plan

Franchise Swap Proposal Supported by AL Moguls

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox said today the American League would grant the National League's return to New York in a swap for the right to enter Los Angeles and San Francisco when and if it chooses to do so.

"We're not going to let the National League take over in the two most lucrative West Coast cities and then return to New York, too," said Comiskey, also an alternate on major league baseball's executive council.

"Let's face it," he added. "In 15 years there will be only three two-team towns—New York, Chicago and Los Angeles."

Swap Plan Proposed

Comiskey said he had proposed the swap plan to the American League and that it had been supported.

Going into yesterday's separate league meetings, the American already had proposed an amendment to the major league's constitution which would divide New York into two baseball territories following the transfer of the National League's New York and Brooklyn franchises to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The amendment would leave only Brooklyn as open territory, shutting the National League out of the Bronx, Manhattan, Queens and Staten Island.

Under Comiskey's compromise, the American League would also place Queens in the open classification. Queens is the only New York area looked upon as a feasible stadium site by city officials.

Dodgers Get More Time

The two leagues, meeting in joint session with commissioner Ford Frick, later unanimously supported a National League request to shelve any action in the matter until their December meeting "pending developments."

In a separate meeting, the National League owners:

1. Were advised the New York Giants had filed a formal letter of intent in their shift to San Francisco.

2. Gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a two-week extension, through Oct. 15, on the deadline for their final

Migratory Waterfowl Season Opens Oct. 19

ALBANY (AP)—The migratory waterfowl season in Upstate New York will open Oct. 19 and close Dec. 27, the State Conservation Department announced yesterday.

On Long Island and in that part of Westchester County south of the Hutchinson River Parkway, the season will run from Nov. 2 through Jan. 10.

The department said the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service had approved recommendations for 70 continuous days of hunting.

The largest boxing gate in Yankee Stadium history amounted to $1,925,564 when Joe Louis and Billy Conn fought for the heavyweight title in 1946.

3. Changed their constitution to make only a three-fourths approval necessary for a franchise transfer, rather than the previous unanimous vote.

Tony's, Caruso's, Car Wash Win in YMCA Cage Loop

Tony's Pizzeria, Caruso's Insurance and Minute Car Wash triumphed last night in YMCA Autumn "B" league basketball action.

Dave Madison's 22 points was the top individual effort and sparked Tony's to a 61-49 win over the Kingston Blacktops. Skip Brodhead contributed 17.

Ron Marks topped the Blacktops with 18 and Rich Nagele added 16.

Minute Car Wash white-washed Hoppy's in the second period and went on to a 47-29 triumph as three players hit double figures. Mel Williams and Bucky Miller were the pacesetters, each with 13, while Bob Smith threw in 11.

Ferraro Hits 13
Big Jim Ferraro topped Hoppy's with 13.

Caruso's spurted in the second half to wrap up a tight 50-46 verdict against Accord. Accord held a 28-20 at the intermission, but could only glean 18 points in the second half.

Phil DeCicco bucketed 14 for the Insurance men who won on a balanced attack. Dallo hit for 16 and Gorman and Edeleman each 13 in a losing cause.

Syracuse University's early football warriors must have wondered just what it took to score a touchdown against their near-by Cornell rivals. In 11 games, from 1891-1900, Syracuse failed to score a touchdown against the Redmen.

Tyra Inks Knick Pact

Charlie Tyra, the big center from the Univ. of Louisville, has clinched a berth with the New York Knickerbockers, who are in training at Upsala College, East Orange, for the forthcoming National Basketball Assn. campaign.

Tyra is very strong off the backboards and makes good offensive moves," said Coach Vince Boryla. He's scoring better than I had anticipated. He's got himself a job with us."

Tyra, 6-8, 238 pounds, the nation's top collegiate center the past two years, came to the Knicks in the trade that sent veterans Harry Gallatin and Nat Clifton to the Detroit Pistons. Mel Hutchins, included in the same deal, had his sixth workout with the Knicks yesterday and was outstanding in scrimmage.

Hutchins was delayed in reporting by personal affairs. The Knicks opened conditioning Sept. 23. They make their Garden debut Saturday, Oct. 19, against the College All Stars.

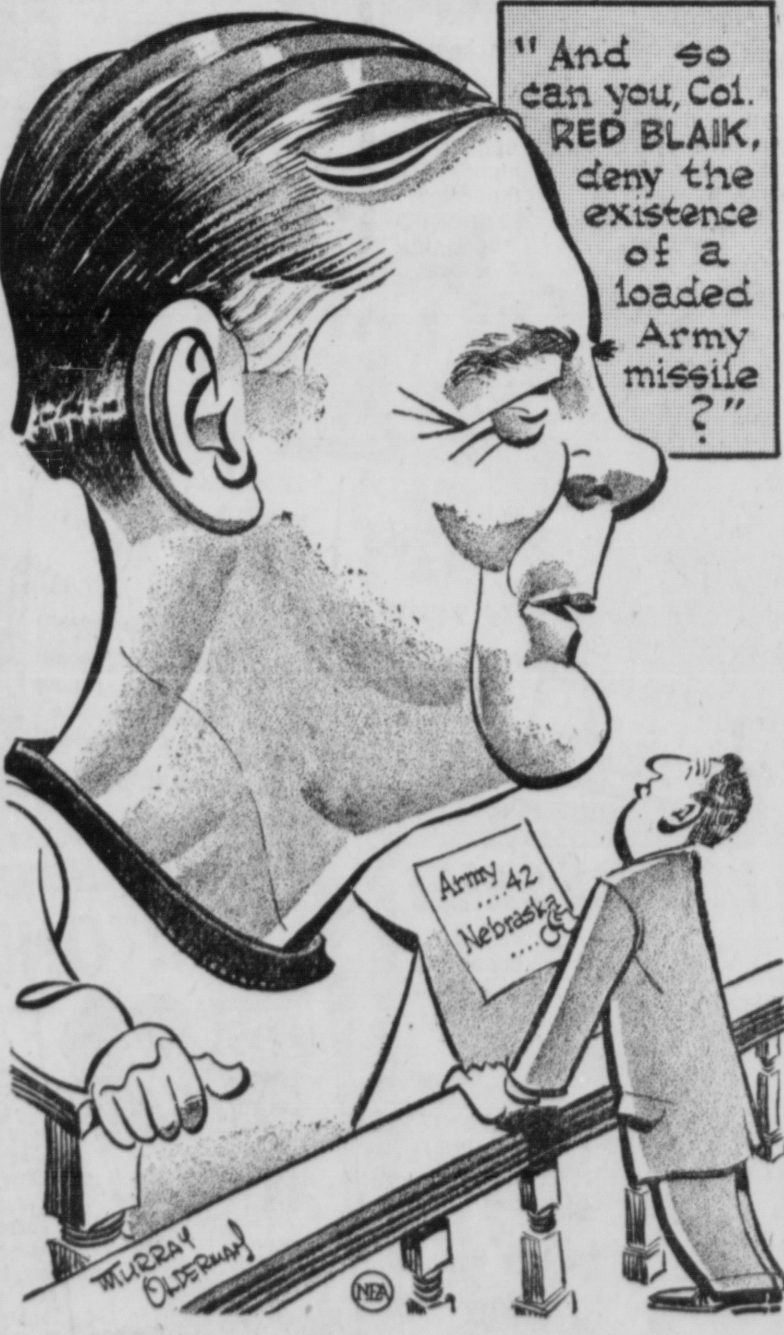

Willie Naulls and rookie Brendan McCann also were singled out by Boryla for words of praise. "Naulls impresses me as being much better than last season," said the coach. "He has more spirit and he's hustling. Potentially he's one of the best corner men in the NBA. McCann's playmaking and ball handling have featured our drills to date."

The only Knick still missing from camp is Ron Sobie, who is scheduled to be detached from army service this weekend.

The Knicks get their first test of real competition this Saturday evening when they play an intra-squad game at Levittown High School on Long Island at 8 p. m.

Paltz Meeting Nov. 6 to Hear New School Plan

One in a series of 14 open hearings to discuss details of a tentative draft of a new master plan for school district reorganization will be held November 6 at New Paltz State Teachers College.

The announcement was made today by Dr. James E. Allen Jr., state commissioner of education. The meeting, scheduled to begin at 10 a. m., will be for educators and public of Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Sullivan, and Ulster counties.

First at Sidney
The first meeting is scheduled Thursday at the Sidney Central School, principally for the educators and public of Broome, Chenango, Delaware and Otsego counties.

The commissioner of education was empowered by the State Legislature in 1956 to investigate, study and review the master plan for reorganizing school districts to bring up to date the last revision authorized in 1947. Preliminary studies have been completed by the professional staff of the Education Department with the advice and assistance of a statewide advisory committee.

Dr. Arvie Eldred has served as director of the studies leading to the tentative plan, which is now to be discussed in the 14 state-wide hearings. Final plans will be completed after all interested parties have had an opportunity to present their ideas and suggestions.

Will Attend Meetings
Dr. Eldred will attend all the 14 open hearings with at least one other member of the Education Department staff in each hearing.

Others who will attend meetings include Dr. A. W. Schmidt, assistant commissioner for finance and school administrative services, and the following members of the Bureau of Rural Administrative Services: Francis E. Griffin, chief, Donald O. Benedict, Robert M. Coughlin and Harry Langworthy, Jr.

Members of the Advisory Committee on master plan for school district reorganization include Edward A. Burke, supervising principal of South Kortright Central School; Donald V. Buttenheim, president of Bedford Central School Board, of Mount Kisco; J. C. Corwith, past president of Council on Rural Education, of Water Mill; Mrs. William H. Cobb, 1st vice president of New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers, of West Sand Lake; Harry W. Forbes, supervising principal of Whitesboro Central School; E. S. Foster, general secretary of New York State Farm Bureau Federation, of Ithaca; John W. Harrold, district superintendent of Clinton County schools, from Ellenburg Depot; Vernon M. Hyatt, supervising principal, Seneca-Gorham-Potter Central Schools, from Gorham.

Other members include Harold Monson, superintendent of schools in Newburgh; Robert E. Murray, superintendent of schools in Schenectady; Walter M. Ormsby, Suffolk County district superintendent of schools, from Patchogue; Caroline P. Perry, retired district superintendent of Washington County schools, from Eagle Bridge; Milton V. Pullen, district superintendent of Greece Central School District, from Rochester; Edwin J. Rogers, chairman of central school boards committee for educational research and president of Board of Education in Sidney; Leland D. Smith, master of New York State

Boy Reinstated Mother's Slap Of Teacher Can't Suspend Student

ALBANY (U)—The state education commissioner says a school district and its principal had no business suspending a boy after his mother slapped his teacher's face.

James E. Allen Jr. ordered the East Nassau Central School district Monday to reinstate 10-year-old Philip Kie, a fifth-grade pupil. Allen said the board and the principal were "without any warrant either in law or fact" in suspending the boy.

Philip's mother, Mrs. Myrtle M. Kie, went to the school Sept. 6 to speak with the boy's teacher, Jack Ehrenreich. Mrs. Kie contended the teacher had used abusive language to her boy and had referred to him as a "sneak." In the course of the meeting, she slapped the teacher. Philip was suspended that day, pending a public apology by Mrs. Kie.

Mrs. Kie said such a demand was "childish." She appealed to Allen.

In his decision, Allen said it was "imperative" that Philip's education no longer be interrupted merely because the board of education believed it could control the situation by suspending the boy.

Allen said a precedent could "easily lead to the board of education forbidding a child to attend school for a myriad of grievances, either real or fancied, with the board of education may have against the parents of a child."

Fire Official Pleads Innocent to Murder

CHELSEA, Mass. (U)—Outwardly calm, Boston Fire Lt. John W. Burke, 43, twice decorated for fire-fighting bravery, pleaded innocent today to a murder charge in the assault death of his wife, Marie, 42, mother of their four children.

Burke nodded to his oldest son, John, 23, as he was brought into district court. The son sat in the courtroom with several relatives and friends.

At the request of Revere Police Capt. William F. Gannon and defense counsel Daniel J. Dempsey, Judge Frank D. Crowley granted a one-week continuance.

Burke, held without bail, was taken to Suffolk County jail in Boston. Mrs. Burke was found beaten on a deserted Revere street Saturday night, not far from the home of her father. She died Monday.

Police said that when first questioned Burke said he had driven his wife to a point near her father's home after a wedding reception and then hurried off to duty in Boston about six miles away.

Gannon said suspicion turned on Burke after a motorist reported he had seen a woman being beaten in a car parked off American Legion parkway. He gave police the license number.

Chico Vejar of Stamford, Conn., went to a gym to watch a friend work out and became interested in boxing.

Bayonet Charge Leads to Arrest Of Area Youth

A 16-year-old youth was arrested early Tuesday afternoon on a second degree assault charge when it was alleged he threatened another youth with an army rifle bayonet during an argument in front of 458 Broadway.

Ronald E. Robinson, of Box 382, RD 5, Sleightsburg, was arraigned in city court today and the case was adjourned to Oct. 8.

The name of the complainant was withheld by police. Police said Robinson and the other youth, allegedly threatened, are students at Kingston High School.

Young Robinson was arrested, following an investigation at police headquarters by Officers Guernsey Burger Sr., and Edward Leonard.

Police described the weapon as an army rifle bayonet with a 10-inch blade and four-inch handle, the type which may be attached to a rifle.

Young Robinson was carrying the bayonet in a sheath on his person when he allegedly threatened the other youth with it during an argument, police said.

ALBANY (U)—Dollar-conscious New York taxpayers rejected 17 school budgets this year. In the last two years they also have spurned 128 school-construction bond issues.

Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. released these figures to back up his argument that taxpayers are becoming more and more critical in their attitude toward public spending.

Allen said there did not appear to be "any definite trend to deny education the money it needs to fulfill its primary duty."

But, he continued, "there are definite indications the taxpayers are interesting themselves in our affairs to a far greater degree." He said this should make for better school administration in the long run.

The 17 budgets rejected represent only about 1 1/2 per cent of those proposed by the 1,100 school districts in the state.

However, the proportion of bond issues that were rejected was much higher—slightly over 26 per cent. Of 485 bond proposals placed before the voters, 128 were voted down. Later 20 were resubmitted and approved. Two were rejected a second time.

Coty Keeps Busy Trying to Find Another Premier

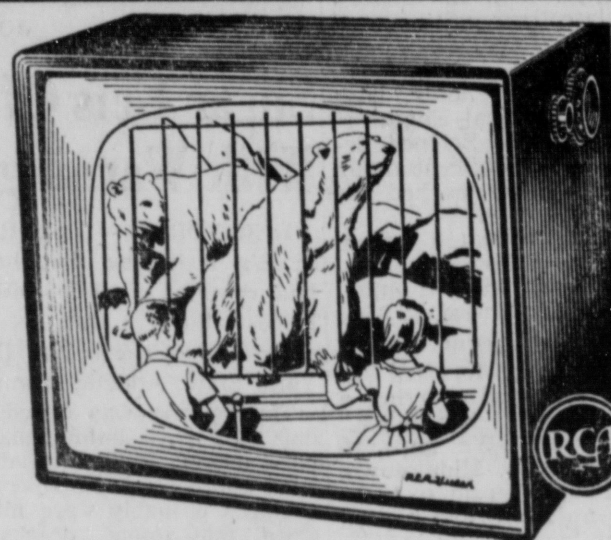

PARIS (U)—Political leaders continued to move in and out of Elysee Palace today to talk with President Rene Coty about solutions to France's government crisis.

Coty was tackling the job of finding a premier for the fifth time since he started his seven-year term as president and this time his task was harder than ever. The National Assembly, which defeated Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury Monday on a confidence vote over Algeria, was torn by dissension.

Any new government must find some measure of agreement on dealing with the two prime issues—Algeria's future and France's runaway inflation—before daring to go before parliament for approval.

Some observers felt Coty might first pick a conciliator to sound out the assembly factions informally before settling on someone to try and form a cabinet. Rene Pleven, leader of the small Union of Democratic Socialist Resistance performed that task during the last government upheaval 3 1/2 months ago and again was being mentioned as a possible candidate.

New Curriculum
Old Dutch Church School has recently undertaken the faith and life curriculum of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The relationship that the home participation bears to the successful use of this curriculum will be explained by Dr. Reitz.

A resident of Syracuse, Dr. Reitz is a member of the staff of the board of education of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., serving as field director in the Synod of New York. Dr. Reitz came to the field office nearly five years ago from the Central Presbyterian Church of New York where he was associate pastor in charge of Christian education.

Interested in interdenominational work, he also serves as advisor for the State Youth Council and for the State Youth Adult Council.

Gold Reserves Down

LONDON (AP)—The treasury announced today that Britain's gold and dollar reserves fell by 292 million dollars during September.

The reserves stood at $1,850,000,000 on Sept. 30.

It has been accepted by some economists that two billion dollars is the minimum figure to which the reserves could fall without endangering the value of the pound.

The reserves finance the sterling area's trade with the dollar world. The sterling area includes Britain and the commonwealth, except Canada, and some other countries.

The September fall followed a drop of 225 million in August.

By export drives, import restrictions and monetary policies, successive British governments have fought since the end of World War II to protect the gold and dollar balance.

In recent months the pound has been subject to heavy pressure in international money markets.

Dixie Governors Renew Efforts To Solve Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—A committee of southern governors renewed efforts today to solve the Little Rock integration crisis. But there were no immediate signs of a prospective successful formula.

Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee said he thought they would succeed, but suggested a new meeting of President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas in event the governors committee could not come up with a solution.

Clement told a reporter, "this problem is so great and the results so tragic and our people are so troubled over the terrible situation, the President of the United States and the governor of Arkansas, should be willing to sit down once again, face to face, and find a solution."

"No Comment: Clement

"I sincerely hope this will not be necessary."

Clement said he and Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina, chairman of the southern group, had discussed a solution with White House representatives since the President announced he could not accept Gov. Faubus' declaration in regard to the agreement reached between the President and the governors yesterday.

Clement replied "no comment" to further questions.

At the White House, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference there is no sign yet indicating when federal troops might be withdrawn from their role of enforcing integration in Little Rock's Central High School.

Hagerty said that "I think that is automatic," that southern governors will check back with Faubus and try to work out a solution of the integration-troop problem.

Neared Success

Efforts to solve the controversy broke down last night when they appeared to be within reach of success. President Eisenhower rejected as unsatisfactory the manner in which Faubus offered success that law and order would be preserved in Little Rock and that school integration orders of federal courts "will not be obstructed by me."

Hagerty appeared to indicate that Eisenhower would return the Arkansas National Guard to state control and then remove federal troops if Faubus comes through with a statement following the exact language of one on which Eisenhower and the four governors agreed yesterday.

The statement said the governors had informed Eisenhower that Faubus "had authorized them to state that he is prepared to assume full responsibility for maintaining law and order in Little Rock and, in connection therewith, will not obstruct the orders of the federal courts."

GOP Panel Slated For Tonight at Governor Clinton

This is the night for the panel discussion, featuring local political leaders, sponsored by the Ulster County Women's Republican Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Starting time is 8:30 p. m.

Republicans on the panel will be Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, newly elected leader of the county central committee of the party; Supervisor Jesse McHugh, town of Shawangunk, vice chairman; District Attorney Frederick H. Stang of Kingston.

Former State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city, will be moderator. He is retired from 30 years in the state legislature and 14 years as GOP county leader.

Various topics will be covered by the panel and in a question and answer period.

OSWEGO (AP)—A State Supreme Court justice holds that a teacher with a master's degree is entitled to $300 more than a teacher with a bachelor's degree.

Justice Carl W. Peterson yesterday decided in favor of Vincent A. Crosall, president of the Oswego Federation of Teachers, in his suit against the Oswego Board of Education.

The salary differential in Oswego has been $150.

A state education law, which took effect July 1, 1956, provides for the $300 differential between certified teachers and those who have completed 30 hours of study beyond that required for a bachelor's degree.

The board of education estimated it would have to pay $1,050 in back pay to seven teachers holding master's degrees in the school system. The board said no decision had been made on whether to appeal.

FBI Agent Tells Of Red Groups In Buffalo Area

BUFFALO (AP)—A self-styled undercover man within the Communist Party for the Federal Bureau of Investigation declared today that he had known of a dozen Communist clubs in the Buffalo area and 50 to 75 members by name.

Charles Regan of Buffalo, who said he was a party member for 10 years until 1953, testified before a House subcommittee on un-American activities.

Old UE Officials

On the list of names he recited from the witness chair were those of at least four area officials of the old United Electrical Workers Union.

At yesterday's session, Sidney Turf, 36, of suburban Kenmore, said he and others left the Communist Party recently after bitter arguments at high-level meetings. He said he quit last April after belonging to two "steel sections" of the party, which operated in area industrial plants.

But he invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to identify others who had quit the party.

Regan specifically mentioned Emmanuel Fried, John Enfant, Edward Landy, Charles Van Tyne and James Annaccone, all of whom once were international representatives or organizers for the now-defunct UE.

Too Many to Recall

"I made a list of people while coming down on the bus today," he said. "There are so many I can't recall them all."

The committee opened a four-day public hearing yesterday in investigation of reports of communist infiltration into heavy industry and communist propaganda activities.

More than 30 persons are expected to appear before it. Reps. Gordon H. Scherer (R-Ohio) and Edwin E. Willis (D-La.) are presiding.

Turf said he did "general factory work" with the Tube Manufacturing Co. of North Tonawanda. He testified that he joined the communist party in New York City in 1947.

Turf said he quit the party this year because "the American (communist) party would not condemn the crimes of Stalin as revealed in Khrushchev's speech, because of the Russian intervention in the Hungarian revolt and because of Russian failure to take any action against anti-semitism (in Russia)."

Opponents Try To Halt Hoffa Steam Roller

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Three opponents battled desperately today to stem a steamroller that appeared to be sweeping James R. Hoffa, of Detroit, toward the presidency of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

In a swirling, slambang battle for votes, Hoffa picked up endorsements from the New England Conference, the Eastern Conference and the Los Angeles Joint Council of Teamsters in his campaign to succeed retiring president Dave Beck.

International Vice President Einar Mohn, Beck's administrative assistant, made his first public move in the massive battle for power as he spearheaded the drive to win the Los Angeles delegates over to the Midwest Teamster boss.

General secretary John F. English was prominent in the action of the New England Conference in Hoffa's favor.

Still Confident

But anti-Hoffa forces were still active, aggressive and asserting confidence.

International vice president William A. Lee of Chicago was given a vote of confidence by the National Bakeries Drivers Conference—but not an endorsement.

Efforts to form a coalition of forces between Lee, vice president Thomas L. Hickey of New York and Thomas J. Haggerty, Chicago milk truck drivers official, continued—still unsuccessfully.

Hoffa showed strength by turning into a personal ovation a demonstration over the refusal by Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court to halt Teamster elections.

Warren yesterday refused to disturb a Circuit Court of Appeals decree setting aside a temporary injunction by District Judge F. Dickinson Letts that would have prevented the Teamsters from electing new officers.

Beck announced news of Warren's decision, delegates jumped to their feet shouting.

Hoffa appeared on the rostrum and raised Beck's hand in the traditional prize ring signal of victory. Shouting rose to a frenzied roar of what appeared to be a personal ovation for Hoffa.

Brundage Sounds Economy Move to Reduce Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's record peacetime budget has grown a bit bigger—to 72 billion dollars—but the administration hopes to reduce spending to 70 billions in the year ending June 30, 1959.

Budget Director Percival E. Brundage announced the economy target for next year after issuing his midyear review yesterday. It showed estimated spending for this year up by 200 million dollars from Eisenhower's January estimate, and the prospective surplus down by 300 million dollars, to 1½ billions.

Those figures, covering the 1958 fiscal year that started July 1, would not justify tax reduction, Brundage told reporters, but added the following year may be better, fiscally speaking.

If enough savings are achieved and the personal income of Americans continues to rise as expected, Brundage said, Congress could consider tax relief "next spring"—although not to take effect until midyear or thereafter.

"I am hoping we can hold the 1959 budget to 70 billion dollars," he told a news conference.

"I don't exactly expect that, but I think every member of the administration is doing his level best."

If Congress sticks to its economy drive, it would be very helpful.

President Leads U. S. In National Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower led Americans today in a National Day of Prayer, at a service which put implied emphasis on racial integration problems.

The President, still embroiled in the situation at Little Rock, Ark., to which he devoted most of yesterday afternoon and evening, attended a special 8:30 a. m. prayer meeting at the National Presbyterian Church. He is a member of that church.

Eisenhower, looking refreshed, was accompanied only by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

He walked briskly up the church steps to shake hands with the pastor, Dr. Edward L. R. Elson.

In the prayer, there was special fervency in Elson's voice as he came to this passage:

"Protect us from enemies without; and unworthiness within. Bless all the custodians of our national safety and civil order. Enable us to trust one another and to fear only Thee. Make us equal to our high trust, reverent in the use of freedom, just in the exercise of power, and generous in the protection of the weak."

Elson closed with a special plea for a blessing on "Thy servant, the President of the United States."

Personal Plea

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A kitchen worker, unloading the weekly food shipments from state penitentiary at the governor's mansion, found a scribbled note. Addressed to Gov. and Mrs. J. P. Coleman, the note read: "When your heart overflows with mercy, remember me." It was signed "Lonzy Harris, 20227." Coleman remarked to his wife: "He didn't ask me to remember him when my heart overflows with justice."

Says Study Will Show Tunnel Plan Best for Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Counsel for Niagara Falls, N. Y., said today an engineering study is under way to provide data demonstrating that construction of tunnels under the city is the best way to feed water to the authorized 600-million-dollar power plant just outside the city.

Clarence W. Greenwald, corporation counsel, said results were expected to be ready in about 10 days and would be presented to the Federal Power Commission.

At an FPC hearing here, Greenwald is leading the opposition to the New York State Power Authority's plan to build two conduits in the city to carry Niagara river water to the proposed reservoir and power plant in the nearby town of Lewiston.

In the face of lengthy testimony from authority officials and consulting engineers that the tunnel plan is not practical, Greenwald said he hoped to prove that the job could be done with twin tunnels instead of three as the authority had maintained would be needed.

Fastest Plan

In statements prepared for today's session, the authority spokesmen said their plan, decided upon after extensive study, would be the fastest, most efficient and least costly way of completing the mammoth project.

The plan calls for 2½ miles of partly covered conduit in the city, and a total 2½ miles of open canal in the adjacent towns of Niagara and Lewiston.

A large reservoir and power plant in Lewiston would provide power for western New York, where a shortage exists due to rockslide damage to the Schoellkopf plant of the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., and for parts of western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio.

George Rich, a Malden, Mass., consulting engineer, said in a prepared statement that adoption of any plan involving tunnels in the city would delay the project at least six months.

Chapin Skeptical

William S. Chapin, general manager and secretary of the authority, said in a prepared statement that in view of the time and the cost, construction of tunnels could not "by the wildest stretch of the imagination" be justified merely on grounds of temporary inconveniences to the city while conduits are being built.

Chapin maintained that utility lines would be kept in operation during the conduit building job, street and rail traffic re-routed but kept going, and residents of 104 houses in the area removed to even more suitable neighborhoods. Sixty of the houses actually would be moved, he said.

Sabotaging Reds

SAIGON (AP)—Secret organizations are springing up in North Viet Nam and sabotaging enterprises of the communist government, the South Viet Nam government news agency said today.

The agency reported that resistance is growing in all provinces. It said in the highland sections "ethnic minorities openly resist the communists by refusing to pay taxes and to comply with forced labor."

In Communist China all literary works, facts or fiction, must be submitted to censorship before they go to the printers.

555 Pupils Now Victims of Flu

ALBANY (AP)—An illness suspected of being Asian flu hit 555 persons in four schools today, pushing to 2,460 the total number of cases in New York State since June.

The Health Department has confirmed 350 cases as being Asian flu. Tests to determine the illness take several weeks.

Today, the department reported 318 students of the 900 attending St. Bonaventure University at Olean, were absent. The university said between 25 and 30 students were hospitalized.

At the Franklinville Central School, Cattaraugus County, 127 of 360 pupils in the high school and 97 of 660 in the elementary school were absent. Both schools were open.

The number of cases increased from 10 yesterday to 23 today at the Warwick Training School for Boys in Orange County.

Four other schools were closed yesterday.

Will Test Motor Law

ALBANY (AP)—The constitutionality of a law that requires motorists to have control of their automobiles will be tested in the Court of Appeals.

The law has been attacked as too vague.

A State Law Department spokesman said yesterday the attorney general's office would uphold the law before the state's highest tribunal as "a friend of the court."

It will be the first constitutional test of section 56-1 of the motor vehicle and traffic law, the spokesman said. The section went into effect May 1, 1946.

The case before the court is the people against Philip R. Firth of East Rochester, the department said. Firth's attorneys maintain the law is vague and indefinite and therefore unconstitutional.

In Binghamton Monday, Judge Walter J. Relihan of City Court declared the section was unconstitutional and dismissed charges against a Binghamton man.

Relihan said four county judges in the state also had held the section to be unconstitutional.

Proposes Moon For Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—A University of Maryland, scientist today proposed the moon as a safe, remote site for testing hydrogen bombs. Dr. S. Fred Singer said it will be no greater technical problem to send an interplanetary ballistic missile (IPBM) 240,000 miles to the moon than it will be to launch an intercontinental missile (ICBM) 5,000 miles.

Singer presented his unusual views in a paper prepared for the Congress of the International Astronautical Federation in Barcelona, Spain, next week.

An advance report was published today in Missiles and Rockets magazine. Singer said the technique not only would free the earth of radioactive fallout dangers but would provide valuable scientific data.

He said some of the debris kicked up from blasting craters on the moon may shower the earth with dust particles and even boulders.

The study of these moon samples would provide valuable information on the solar system, he added.

Jap Lawyers May Call Girard's Wife

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—Japanese government prosecutors said today they might ask William S. Girard's Japanese wife to testify in the GI's manslaughter trial if the defense doesn't.

Girard's Japanese lawyer has ordered Mrs. Haru "Candy" Girard to stay out of court. He said the Japanese public disapproved of their marrying while the Ottawa, Ill., soldier was under indictment for the fatal shooting of a Japanese woman collecting scrap brass on a firing range. Japanese law, however, obligates the prosecution to present all pertinent facts even if they do not support the government's case.

Postal Worker Is Arrested for Embezzling $13

POUGHKEEPSIE (AP)—William P. Rinkle, 49, a Poughkeepsie post office clerk since 1950, has been arrested on a charge of embezzling $13 in cash from a letter mailed to the Domestic Finance Co. here.

The arrest was made Sunday night by postal inspectors, who declined to give further details of the case. Wilson Cunningham, manager of the finance company, said the firm had lost $150 from mail directed to it during the past six months.

Rinkle waived examination before U. S. commissioner John B. Garrity and was released without bond to await action of a federal grand jury.
